ATHLETICS AT KENTUCKY

Kentucky's athletics program is organized under the Department of Athletics and a corporation known as the University of Kentucky Athletic Association.

A firm believer in sports and sportsmanship, Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, Vice-President of the University, has general supervision over the Department and also serves as vice chairman of the Board of Directors of the Association.

Former UK football player and one-time Wildcat coach, Dr. A. D. Kirwan, acts as secretary to the Association. He also is the school's faculty representative to the Southeastern Conference and currently is chairman of the NCAA committee on infractions.

Bernie A. Shively heads the Department as Director of Athletics.

Maintaining over-all control of U.K. athletics affairs is the Board of Directors of the Athletics Association, composed of the President of the University and 10 other directors appointed by him, including five members of the faculty of the University, the president of the Student Government Association, an alumnus of the school, a member of the U.K. Board of Trustees, and two others. Frank D. Peterson, University Vice President of Business Administration, serves the board as treasurer.

The current Board of Directors consists of the following members:

Dr. Frank G. Dickey, Chairman	Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, Vice Chairman
Dr. A. D. Kirwan, Secretary	Robert Hobson
Dr. Ralph Angelucci	Alfred L. Crabb
Thomas H. Ballantine	Paul Oberst
George K. Brady	Richard K. Lehman (Student)
Aubrey J. Brown	H. D. Palmore
Thomas Clark	D. V. Terrell
Lyman Ginger	William A. Tolman

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

BERNIE A. SHIVELY

Supervising the steady growth and balanced development of one of the nation's top athletic programs is the Herculean task being carried out successfully by Bernie A. Shively.

Few who have observed the untiring efforts of the tall, silver-haired former All-America footballer in the service of the University of Kentucky as Director of Athletics since 1938 will argue his fitness as an athletic Hercules. Not only has Shively guided the development of Kentucky as a nationally-respected power in major sports, but he has also gained personal prestige through a fair-minded approach to many problems.

During his tenure as Athletic Director, Shively has directly supervised major expansions in Kentucky's athletic plant resulting from the progression of the school's football and basketball teams to greater national prominence and increased patronage by the sports-minded public.

The seating capacity of Kentucky's football stadium, McLean Stadium on Stoll Field, has been doubled to bring the current number of seats to approximately 36,000 and on par with most other schools located in heavier-populated areas. Powerful lighting equipment also was installed during the 1948-49 construction to bring night football into new popularity. Partly to satisfy the overwhelming number of basketball devotees, who could not squeeze into the 2,800-seat Alumni Gymnasium, a long-planned Memorial Coliseum was completed in 1950. Seating 12,000 persons for cage contests, the four-million dollar Coliseum also houses the Athletic Department and provides the first permanent home for the school's many minor sports teams. More recently, the Athletics Association has completed other facilities to make the life of its athletes more comfortable. Members of the football team moved in 1954 into two modern, ranch-style living units known as "Wildcat Manor" and "Kitten Lodge." The new dormitories house both the varsity and freshman teams and replace three frame houses which the gridgers had occupied since 1946. And last fall, a large new dressing room building was completed on property located adjacent to the new practice field and a short distance from the football houses.

All-America Guard At Illinois

A native of Paris, Ill., Shively attended the University of Illinois where he was an All-America guard in 1926 on the same grid team made famous by Red Grange. Demonstrating a claim to being one of the finest all-around athletes in Illinois' history, "Shive" also laid claim to the Big 10 heavyweight wrestling championship and annexed letters in track before graduating in 1927.

Shively came to Kentucky in 1927 as line coach of football under Harry Gammage. A shift in the coaching ranks in 1933 resulted in Shively's promotion to head of the UK Physical Education Department, a position he retained until he succeeded Chet Wynne as Athletic Director in 1938. During this period and the years following, he also served as track and baseball coach for several seasons and continued to assist the football staff as line coach until 1944. The next year, 1945, he assumed full charge of the grid squad for one season before turning the job over to mentor Paul (Bear) Bryant in 1946.

The Kentucky Athletic Director served as chairman of the Southeastern Conference basketball committee for a number of years and for the past three years has been president of the SEC Coaches and Athletic Directors Association. In 1951, he took over the added task of establishing a booking office for football and basketball officials for the Ohio Valley Conference and heads the office as Supervisor of Officials. Familiarly known to his many friends as "Shive," he also has been active in numerous other civic and state organizations and projects.

VICTORY KICKS

A game unique in University of Kentucky football history occurred in 1900. Kentucky beat the Louisville YMCA, 12-6, without running a single offensive play during the entire game. Kicking on first down every time they gained possession of the ball, Kentucky made its scores through the recovery of opponent fumbles in the end zone.

STOLL FIELD — McLEAN STADIUM

Much confusion among the general public and the sports-writing fraternity apparently exists over a seeming duplication of titles in referring to the University of Kentucky's football setup along "Avenue of Champions."

Officially, by action of the University Board of Trustees, the general area encompassing the playing field is known as "Stoll Field." Likewise, by authority of the same body, the stadium proper is known as "McLean Stadium."

Kentucky's first football field, occupying the general site of what is now the practice field west of the stadium, was first given a name when it was dedicated on October 14, 1916, as Stoll Field in honor of the late Judge Richard C. Stoll, prominent alumnus, trustee and benefactor of the University of Kentucky. Soon after the first sections of the present concrete stadium were completed on September 4, 1924, the new field site and stadium were likewise officially known as Stoll Field.

The first attraction to be held on the new Stoll Field was a football game with the University of Louisville on October 4, 1924. A gridiron clash between Kentucky and the then-powerful Centre College team was the first game played in the fully-completed stadium on November 1, 1924.

The later reference to the concrete stands as "McLean Stadium" has existed since November 1, 1924, when the stadium was officially dedicated in memory of Price Innes McLean and a bronze plaque placed in the south stands by the Class of 1925. McLean, regular center on the 1923 Kentucky football squad, died November 7, 1923, as the result of injuries sustained in the U.K.-Cincinnati game played in the Queen City the afternoon before.

Major expansions of McLean Stadium in 1948 and 1949 have resulted in a current over-all seating capacity of approximately 36,000.

"Avenue of Champions" came into being in the spring of 1950 as an honorary title for that stretch of Euclid Avenue running between the University's $4,000,000 Memorial Coliseum and McLean Stadium. The street was officially re-named by the City of Lexington in recognition of the UK athletic teams' unprecedented success of 1950 in annexing the Southeastern Conference titles in both football and basketball and their national championships in the Sugar Bowl grid game and the NCAA cage tournament.

BLANTON COLLIER

Head Football Coach

(Two Years — Won 13, Lost 6, Tied 1)

A quiet-mannered native Kentuckian, who fulfilled a life-long ambition when he took over the coaching reins at his home-state university in 1954, Blanton Collier is a man with a unique background and a potentiality great future.

With only two years in the collegiate coaching ranks behind him, the popular Wildcat mentor is highly regarded in athletic circles the country over and already has earned the distinction of "Coach of the Year" in the tough Southeastern Conference, where a vote is harder to get than campaign promises in July.

In gaining this honor in his freshman season at Kentucky, an achievement made all the more significant considering it was the first time the title had been bestowed on a coach in his initial year of college tutoring, Collier climaxed a unique rise in the game.

Born in Millersburg, Ky., and brought up in Paris, Ky., only 17 miles from the University campus, Collier began his athletic career at Paris High School by playing both football and basketball. Later at Georgetown College, he lettered in both sports. Although not an outstanding gridder because of his lack of size (he weighed only 125 pounds then), he was nevertheless regarded as a close student of the game, and upon graduation in 1927, was named coach of all sports at Paris High.

He held this position until he entered the Navy in 1943. During 16 years in the schoolboy coaching ranks, his teams won or shared two Central Kentucky Conference football titles and six basketball championships. His last high school grid team (1943) ranked as unofficial state champions. Also during this period he took postgraduate work at the University of Kentucky and received a master's degree in educational administration in 1942.

It was while he was stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station during his Navy tour that Collier and Paul Brown discovered each other. Brown, a lieutenant and head coach of the Great Lakes football team, became impressed with Yoeman Collier's football knowledge and added him to the staff as an assistant coach. The following year (1946) when the Cleveland Browns were organized with Brown as head coach, Collier made the unique jump from high school ranks (via service ball) to the pros by going along as backfield coach.

During eight seasons with the perennial world champion Browns, Collier made a reputation that stamped him as a great teacher of football—determined but quietly patient. His special function as number one aide to Brown was pass defense and the club consistently ranked tops in the league in this department.

Succeeds Bryant at Kentucky in 1954

When the Kentucky job became available in 1954 with the transfer of Paul Bryant to Texas A & M, Collier was lured into collegiate ranks for the first time in nearly a quarter-century of coaching experience.

Given a three-year contract, Collier launched an immediate attack based on his version of the Split T offense and spiced with a generous helping of solid gridiron fundamentals and stress on perfection in play execution.

The results came almost immediately as the Wildcats, after an erratic start that saw a 2-3 split in the first five encounters, forged a victory string of five straight from mid-season and capped it with a hard-fought, rain-soaked win over their arch-rival, Tennessee, at Knoxville. The Kentuckians were in bowl contention all the way as they wound up with a 7-3 record. Collier was awarded "SEC Coach of the Year" honors and a new, five-year contract by grateful school authorities.

The 1955 campaign was virtually a repetition of the previous year. In carving out a 6-3-1 mark, the Colliermen could point with pride to the fact they registered a win over Mississippi, the only setback suffered by the eventual SEC and Cotton Bowl champions; a tie with league runner-up Auburn; and another triumph over powerful Tennessee that eliminated the Vols from bowl contention and again boosted Kentucky's stock for a post-season date.

Collier married Miss Mary Forman Varden of Paris in 1931 and they have three daughters. Carolyn, 21, attends University of Kentucky, while Kay, 17, is a student at Lexington Henry Clay and Jane, 15, goes to Morton Junior. The Colliers now make their home in Lexington.

THE COACHING STAFF

ERMAL ALLEN

(Kentucky '42)

Backfield Coach

One of Kentucky's most famous athlete graduates, Allen at 35 has had a full career as a collegiate star, pro-football player and successful college grid coach. He starred at quarterback for the Wildcat forces from 1939 to 1941 and entered military service following graduation. Returning as a graduate student after his discharge, Allen became the center of one of the Southeastern Conference's most controversial cases when he attempted to play a fourth year of football in 1946 and was declared ineligible after two games. Allen joined the UK coaching staff of Paul Bryant for the remainder of the '46 season, spent the '47 campaign as a T-quarterback with the professional Cleveland Browns, whose backfield coach at this time was Blanton Collier, and then re-joined the Wildcat staff in 1948. He became Kentucky's head freshman mentor in 1950 and was promoted at season's end to backfield coach. The youthful Allen was retained in this capacity when Collier became head man of the Wildcats. In the off season, he plays a lot of golf and in 1955 won the state amateur championship. Hometown: Morristown, Tenn.

BILL ARNSPARGER

(Miami (O.) '50)

Offensive Line Coach

One of Coach Collier's former grid pupils at Paris (Ky.) High School and a native Kentuckian, Arnsparger joined the UK staff in 1954 as an assistant in charge of offensive line play. The 27-year-old former Marine brings to the staff an excellent background of coaching experience which began at Miami (Ohio) U. following his graduation from that school in '50. In 1951, he moved with boss Woody Hayes to Ohio State where he was tackle coach in charge of offensive line play for three seasons. Arnsparger played at tackle and guard on Collier's teams at Paris High from 1941-43 and entered UK as a freshman in '44. His tour of duty in the Marines began shortly thereafter and he transferred to Miami U. after his discharge to play under Sid Gillman and later Hayes. Hometown: Paris, Ky.

MATT LAIR (Kentucky '48)

Defensive Line Coach

A tough competitor who looks the part of the former top-notch football guard that he was during his days at University of Kentucky, Lair is another product of Blanton Collier's coaching. He was born in nearby Paris, Ky., and played three years of the grid sport under Collier when the latter was coach at Paris High. Entering UK in 1941, Lair was a blocking back for two seasons before going in the service. Upon his return in '46, he played out his final two years' eligibility as a guard regular and then began a career in high school coaching. He was line coach at Sidney Lanier High in Montgomery, Ala., for three years, served one year as an assistant at Louisville Manual and in 1953 was head coach at Parrish High in Selma, Ala. Matt has inherited the task of keeping a scholastic check on Kentucky's gridders to make certain they tackle the classroom grind with the same forcefulness asked of them on the football field. Hometown: North Middletown, Ky.

CHARLEY BRADSHAW (Kentucky '50)

End Coach

An outstanding flankman during his playing days at University of Kentucky, Bradshaw is a serious-minded student of the game who brings to the coaching staff experience as a griddier of great native ability and as a successful high school coaching assistant. He played center and earned his first letter as a freshman with the Wildcats in 1946 and was the team's regular right end for the two and a quarter seasons following until he was ruled ineligible early in the '49 campaign by Commissioner Moore on grounds that he had played out his eligibility. Bradshaw finished out the season as an assistant freshman coach at UK and then moved to Sidney Lanier High in Montgomery, Ala., as an assistant football coach and co-ordinator of a junior high program. He became an aide on the Collier staff in 1954 and holds an M.A. degree to supplement his football knowledge. Hometown: Montgomery, Ala.

DOMINIC FUCCI

Defensive Backfield Coach

Experienced as an outstanding collegiate gridder and professional player, Fucci this fall enters his second term as an aide on the staff of Blanton Collier. The former all-around athlete, who in 1949 became the Wildcats' first All-America baseball star, helped out in the fall of 1954 after he had suffered a broken arm in early action with the pro Detroit Lions football club. Returning to the Lions for the '55 campaign, he saw considerable action as a defensive back and will handle these familiar chores in a coaching assignment this year. In three seasons at Kentucky, Fucci saw duty as a reserve quarterback, special occasion half-back and regular end and was the team's number one punter in both 1949 and '50. Following graduation in 1951, he played professional baseball for a time with the New York Yankees' farm system and then entered service. Hometown: New Village, N. J.

Freshman Coach

A former star flankman at Vanderbilt, John North joined the Kentucky staff last spring in the capacity of Freshman Coach after a full career as collegian, pro player, high school and college coach. The 34-year-old Tennessee native was in the Vanderbilt camp for the 1941 and 1942 seasons before entering military service during World War II. He served three years in the Marines, attaining the grade of sergeant, and upon his release returned to Vandy to play out his remaining years of eligibility in 1946-47. Despite shot-up legs from Marine battles in the South Pacific, he earned second string All-SEC honors and went on to play end two years for the Baltimore Colts. He started his coaching career at a high school in Tallahassee, Ala., in 1951 and three seasons later became line coach at Tennessee Tech, a job he held for the two campaigns immediately preceding his transfer to Kentucky. North holds a master's degree from Peabody College in Nashville. Hometown: Old Hickory, Tenn.

ED RUTLEDGE

Freshman Backfield Coach

Newest member of the Collier staff and occupant of a newly-created position of Freshman Backfield Coach, Rutledge attended Western Kentucky State College, where he played end for three seasons prior to graduation in 1941. He spent the next six and one-half years as a Navy pilot and rose to the rank of Lt. Commander during service in the Panama Canal area. Rutledge also starred in 1941 on the Pensacola NAS football squad recognized as the all-service champion of the USA. The 37-year-old Ohio native has a coaching background that includes a short stint as an assistant at Ironton, Ohio and Bowling Green (Ky.) High as well as experience as athletic officer of the Naval Air Technical Training Center at Memphis. He also served seven months in 1948 as a special agent of the FBI. Rutledge became coach at Danville (Ky.) High after the 1952 campaign and in three seasons posted one of the most outstanding records of any high school coach in the country by annexing 24 victories against only three losses and two ties. The 1954 Danville team, only undefeated and untied eleven in the state, claimed the Kentucky schoolboy grid crown. Hometown: Ironton, Ohio.

COLLIER GOES FROM SINGLE WING TO SPLIT T IN 25 YEARS' COACHING

Collier's football philosophy has varied little during more than 25 years of coaching experience. During his high school days at Paris, he taught the Single Wing system and didn't change over to the T formation until he was coaching the quarterbacks at Great Lakes during the war. He first gained experience with the "T" as a spectator during his boot camp training at Bainbridge, Md., and later while observing the pro Philadelphia Eagles of Greasy Neale. During his tenure as backfield tutor of the Cleveland Browns, he stressed the straight or "back-up" T formation. At Kentucky, he chose to utilize the Split T and plans to stick with the system, with minor variations, this season. He considers himself basically a running coach and attempts to keep a 60-40 balance in favor of the ground attack.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL OUTLOOK — 1956

Development of adequate replacements for seven starters among 15 graduated lettermen, including a duo that ruled as one of the nation's best aerial combinations, and the degree to which anticipated general improvement from within the squad will be offset by a schedule classed as the toughest in the Southeastern Conference loom as the prime factors affecting Kentucky's football outlook for 1956.

The Wildcats' prospects for a successful season might even be classed in the "good" category, though certainly not "terrific," despite the heavy losses if it weren't for the toughest schedule ever arranged for a Kentucky eleven. The card calls for appearances against four teams who were listed in the top 20 of the various polls at season's end and shows no less than five opponents who were bowl-dated last New Year's Day. And, to capture their second championship in the power-laden Southeastern Conference, the Split T forces of Coach Blanton Collier will have to forge a superior record out of competition with eight of the other 11 league outfits.

Season Opener On National Television

Even the order of appearance factor is against the Bluegrass aggregation since they will have to be ready early to face a rugged start that sees them in action first against Georgia Tech's Sugar Bowl champs and squaring off the following week with the defending SEC titlist and Cotton Bowl winner, Ole Miss. The season opener with the Engineers in Lexington is slated as the "Game of the Week" over the nation-wide NCAA-NBC television network.

All told, Kentucky will be missing 15 men who had won a grand total of 40 letters in varsity action, when they take the field in 1956. Besides All-Conference quarterback Bob Hardy, the nation's eleventh-ranking passer, and All-America end Howie Schnellenberger, starting players lost include halfback Dick Moloney, tackle Bill Wheeler, end Bradley Mills, and guards Ray Callahan and O. E. Philpot. Six of the other eight missing lettermen were first-string replacements at their respective positions.

Personnel-wise, the '56 edition of Wildcats stacks up fairly well despite the losses. There is a "hard core" of 22 returning letter winners, although three of them are just back from the service and several are without extensive game duty under their belts, plus a bevy of promising young sophomores anxious to take up the slack.

The standouts are beefy tackle Lou Michaels, one of the top youngsters in the nation last year and an All-Conference Sophomore Team selection who attracted wide attention in late season; an ace linebacking center, Co-Captain Dave Kuhn, who was named on the pre-season All-SEC eleven and designated by league coaches as "best linebacker"; battering-ram fullback Bob Dougherty, the team's leading ground gainer a year ago with a creditable 4.3 average; and veteran guard Duke Curnutte, back after a season's layoff due to scholastic trouble.

No sophomore appears to stand a good chance to break into the select circle of starters before the season gets underway, but there's plenty of confidence in the Kentucky camp regarding their potential abilities. Perhaps the top second-year men are a hustling fullback, Cliff Tribble; a promising flankman, Doug Shively; a schoolboy All-America halfback, Bobby Cravens; and tackle Bob Lindon.

Farley and Zampino Back From Service

Back from the service to help out at quarterback is Bill Farley, who was an understudy to All-America Babe Parilli in his last season at UK in 1951, and a couple of other non-regulars. And back this fall in time for the opener is veteran end Al Zampino, a starter three years ago who has one year of eligibility left.

With Dougherty and two of the next three top ground gainers of '55 returning, the prospect for a good running attack might seem to be fairly good. However, Coach Collier points out that the ground game was not one of Kentucky's long suits last season and one of the two ball carriers behind Dougherty in the statistics was a reserve. The enforced absence of fullback Bobby Walker, due to last season's knee injury and scholastic deficiency, will be seriously felt.

Although the top passing duo will be missing, the Wildcat aerial warfare should not suffer too greatly. On hand to take over the pitching chores will be capable understudy Delmar Hughes, a slender lad who rewrote the record books with his passing achievements while a schoolboy at Prestonsburg (Ky.) High and almost got the starting nod over Hardy for starting duty during the Wildcats' comeback effort in 1953. Stepping in as heir-apparent to top receiving duties is Co-Captain Roger Pack, a strapping 6-2, 202 "darkhorse" who made the most of a chance at regular season action last year when regular right end Mills was injured in mid-season. Also still around are two starting backs (Dougherty and halfback Don Netoskie) of the '55 campaign who ranked high in the receiving picture.

Defensively, the '56 Wildcats should be a tough force to deal with, basing strength estimates on normal improvement minus losses. Kentucky ranked as the sixth best pass defense outfit in the country last year and virtually the same men primarily responsible are back. The one big loss was halfback Dick Moloney. Against a ground attack, the status of defense appears hinged to the development of replacements at key positions and leadership from defensive signal caller Kuhn, pre-season choice as best linebacker in SEC.

Pinpointing the biggest gaps at the various positions presents a problem. Guard may be a weak spot again. Curnutte is back after laying out last season and Archie Powers, an All-SEC Sophomore Team selection, was a late comer at the position, but two men who were generally considered as the regulars are gone. Both ends and one regular tackle also will be missing in the line. Hardy at quarterback, a halfback and Walker at fullback are the backfield losses.

Boiling it down to essentials, Kentucky in 1956 should be able to field a hustling ball club average overall experience, some outstanding personnel, fair running ability, questionable passing potential and hopeful defensive strength. Its chances of showing an improvement over the 6-3-1 record posted in Coach Collier's second campaign last year seem to depend on being ready early and combining continual top-flight play with a little "horse player's luck" against the 10 highly-rated foes they will face.

PASS HEARD 'ROUND THE NATION

A single running pass play by Mississippi State in the fading moments of a game on Stoll Field last October not only cost Kentucky a victory, but proved to be even more important when the statistical filberts added up. If the Maroons had failed to complete the 83-yard, desperation aerial, the Wildcats probably would have led the nation's colleges in pass defense last season. Taking away that one play would have meant a per-game average of 39.6 yards allowed opponents via the airwaves, which would have topped the top mark posted by Florida (42.0). As it was, UK finished sixth in the nation with a 47.9 average.

SERIES HISTORY: Although Kentucky and Georgia Tech first met on the gridiron in 1923, only 14 meetings are recorded in the series due to a couple of lengthy gaps in an otherwise generally-consistent rivalry. The series stands at seven wins to six and one tie in favor of the Yellow Jackets, but UK's record in recent years against one of the nation's foremost grid powers is surprisingly good. Notable Wildcat victories are a 28-14 upset handed Tech in a 1950 meeting at Atlanta and an equally-surprising, 13-6 stinger plucked out of the 1954 game, also at Atlanta. The former proved an important stepping stone in Kentucky's successful bid for a first SEC title and invitation to the Sugar Bowl. Ga. Tech is scheduled to provide opening game competition for the next several years.

LAST MEETING: The series resumes this season after a one-year lapse. In the 1954 encounter at Atlanta, the situation looked dark for the two-touchdown underdog Wildcats who were troubled with a lengthy injury list. However, the Kentuckians forged out a hard-earned, 13-6 upset with the aid of some sensational passing and guidance by quarterback Bob Hardy, who gained "SEC Player of the Week" honor for himself and a second "Coach of the Week" accolade for Coach Collier. The victory, second SEC loss of the season, cost Tech a chance at a potential tie for top conference honors.

1956 OUTLOOK: The Yellow Jackets, who return 19 of the first 22 men of last season, are expecting to field another good football team in 1956. An upset at the hands of Auburn and a costly tie with Tennessee prevented the men of Coach Bobby Dodd from capturing the SEC title last year, but they made up for it by taking the Sugar Bowl honors away from Pittsburgh and pointing for the '56 campaign. On hand will be one of the finest backfields in ability and depth in Tech's history to operate the Spread T featuring the famed "belly series." They are confident that these fine runners will combine with a veteran line to keep Tech's record clear of never having lost in a nationally-televised game. The contest launches the nine-game NCAA-NBC national television program of college football for 1956. Defensively the Jackets also are tough and had less points scored against them than any other major team in the nation in 1955. Outstanding players for Tech include halfback George Volkert, Sugar Bowl star Wade Mitchell at quarterback and pre-season All-SEC tackle Carl Vereen. The experts have made Georgia Tech one of the strongest advance selections for the championship in SEC history.

SERIES HISTORY: A strange sequence of upsets and near-upsets flavors the comparatively-young but colorful rivalry between the Wildcats and Ole Miss. In the dozen meetings since the series was inaugurated in 1944, neither club has been able to win more than two successive games to gain a distinctive edge in the battling. The Wildcats got the series off to an auspicious start by winning the first game, but the men of Coach Johnny Vaught came right back to take the decision in three out of the next four meetings. But it was in 1947 that the fireworks started. Kentucky claimed a 47-0 advantage in overcoming an underdog role and starting on the road to big-time football prominence. Since then, the Kentucky game has proved the “make or break” situation for the Rebels’ season and upsets have been in the category of “a dime a dozen.” The 1954 meeting in Memphis will be remembered as a penalty-marred spectacle resulting in several new conference records on yardage walked off for violations.

LAST MEETING: Bouncing back from their own upset woes of the week before, the Colliermen handed the defending SEC champion Rebels a 21-14 upending last season in Lexington to add another typical chapter to the “beat the favorite” series history. Struggling against the odds of injuries and coming from behind with unexpected fury, the Wildcats went on top in the final frame and then turned back three late desperation stabs as Ole Miss tried to salvage a tie. Delmar Hughes, playing the role of third-string quarterback, turned out to be one of the big heroes of the day as he stole an enemy aerial away on the UK 17 with less than a minute and a half to go and engineered a "deep freeze" that protected Kentucky's advantage. The victory tasted all the sweeter after the season was over as it turned out to be the only setback inflicted on the Rebs who waltzed into a second successive SEC title and Cotton Bowl triumph.

1956 OUTLOOK: The line out of Oxford claims that the Rebels in '56 will be only a slender shadow of their former selves because of lack of experienced depth. Missing from the well-heeled outfit that posted a 10-1 mark to win the conference crown and take a decision from TCU in the Cotton Bowl will be nine starters and three reserve lettermen. But the fine nucleus of 23 returning veterans lends a sobering note to the picture as far as Mississippi's opponents are concerned. And Vaught himself rates the prospective number one unit in '56 as possibly the equal of last season's starters on offense while noting only that the same bunch is merely "questionable" on defense. The '55 Rebels paced the league in the former department with a hefty 337-yards-per-game average and were no better than eleventh in the defensive standings—facts that cause rival coaches to take Vaught's statements with a grain of salt. Some familiar names will be popping up too as the season gets underway, chief among them stellar full-back Paige Cothren. The big loss to the finely-tuned Split T machinery—quarterback Eagle Day. The experts (Birmingham News poll) figure Ole Miss no worse than third when the final gun sounds on the 1956 SEC race.

SERIES HISTORY: The Wildcats have enjoyed things pretty much their own way over the years of the grid rivalry with Florida, posting an advantage of 11 wins to the Gators' four in the 15 contests played since the series started with a 52-0 shellacking administered to UFLA in the final game of the 1917 campaign. The Sunshine Staters could manage only a pair of victories prior to 1952, but the last four meetings have seen the two schools split at two successes apiece. Kentucky dropped its decisions on even years, collapsing completely at season's end after a great emotional effort against Tennessee (14-14 tie) in 1952 to lose by a 27-0 score and absorbing a 21-7 defeat in '54 as the result of another loss of "emotional gas" after being "up" four weeks in a row. The Floridians picked odd years to lose close contests—26-13 in 1953 and 10-7 last season.

LAST MEETING: With a scant 23 seconds remaining on the Stoll Field scoreboard clock and the score deadlocked last year, reserve Kentucky quarterback Delmar Hughes, suffering with a broken nose and other facial injuries from earlier action, came in to boot a successful 20-yard field goal that left Wildcat followers limp with elation and Florida Coach Bob Woodruff steaming with indignation over the resulting 10-7 UK victory. Although the game wasn't supposed to be that close, inspired Florida carried the fight to the Kentuckians all the way and had knotted the count at 7-7 with less than five minutes remaining. Woodruff would have settled for the tie as a moral victory. It was more than 24 hours later back in Florida that he unofficially protested (without substantiation) Hughes' entry into the game was made possible by sideline signalling and a faked injury. He later withdrew the statements attributed to him.

1956 OUTLOOK: The annual poll of expert opinion by the Birmingham News relegated Florida to a finish deep in the second division (9th), but a lot of people feel the Gators have more potential than that despite the loss of six starters among 13 letter winners. Since he came to Florida six seasons ago, Bob Woodruff has guided his charges to a position of respect in the conference. Just about every year, the tag of "darkhorse" is accorded the Fighting Gators and 1956 is no exception. Nobody honestly looks for Florida to pick up all the marbles, but with guys like halfback Jackie Simpson (SEC punt return leader) and veteran fullback Joe Brodsky still in the fold there is every reason to feel they will put up a terrific fight. Woodruff plans to use a combination of the regular "T" and Split-T and looks for improvement in the team's running game. Like the Wildcats, Florida lost its regular quarterback (Bobby Lance) and fears the effect on the passing game, although there is room for improvement since the Gators finished last in the SEC pass offense statistics a year ago. Mainstay in the line should be pre-season All-Conference guard John Barrow.

SERIES HISTORY: Former Southeastern Conference football “door-mats” Kentucky and Auburn first got together on the gridiron at Lexington in 1934, the year after the league was organized, and played another game the following season at Montgomery before interrupting their series for nearly two decades. Each held a victory out of the early meetings and the 1954 scrap, which resumed the rivalry, resulted in a 21-14 decision in the Wildcats’ favor. The Wildcats were a two-touchdown underdog to the bowl-bound Tigers last season, but managed an upsetting tie to bring the series record to two wins for Kentucky, one for Auburn and a tie game. Jordan capped a five-year plan with a second place finish in the conference and a third straight trip to the Gator Bowl with only the Kentucky tie and a squeaker victory by Tulane to spoil an otherwise unblemished regular season record.

LAST MEETING: Frustrations of unsuccessful gambles, key penalties and incomplete field goals forced Kentucky and Auburn to settle for a 14-14 tie in their 1955 meeting in Birmingham. Unbeaten in nine straight starts and heavily favored going into the fiercely-contested tilt, Auburn found themselves on the short end early in the first quarter and never quite recovered from the shock. Three times the Tigers attempted field goals—the last with less than a minute to go and the ball on the UK 13-yard line in tie-breaking position. Each time the ball failed to split the uprights. Kentucky muffed several opportunities to win after erasing a seven-point half-time deficit by driving 72 yards in 13 plays for their second score.

1956 OUTLOOK: The big guns in Coach Shug Jordan's attack have departed and Auburn this season is supposed to have problems complex enough to prevent a repetition of the terrific success of the past three years. Jordan engineered the Plainsmen to an 8-1-1 record in '55 (the tie at the hands of UK) plus their third consecutive post-season trip to the Gator Bowl. The three-year mark stands at 22 wins, six losses and two ties. Now, however, the nucleus which carried Auburn out of the wilderness to national prominence is gone. Although they enjoyed better success than most teams, winning in '54 and tying in '55, Kentucky will not be sorry to face a club minus halfback Fob James (SEC Most Valuable Player), All-America fullback Joe Childress, All-America tackle Frank D'Agostino and All-Conference tackle M. L. Brackett. All told, Auburn lost six starters among nine lettermen, but returns 14 letter winners headed by new potential stars Red Phillips at end, tackle Ben Preston, guard Ernest Danjean and halfback Bobby Hoppe. The Tigers, who will utilize a combination Split T and Spread T, were picked to finish fourth by the experts participating in the annual Birmingham News poll.

SERIES HISTORY: Inaugurated with a game at Baton Rouge in 1949, the Kentucky-Louisiana State grid series is the youngest rivalry within the Southeastern Conference by actual check of the records. An even six meetings make up the series which has been played annually with the exception of the 1951 season and Kentucky has a slight upper hand in the low-scoring games, chalking up three wins to the Tigers' two and a 6-6 tie in 1953. Coach Paul Dietzel, a former Kentucky aide under Paul Bryant who took over the football reins at LSU last season, got his career as a head coach off to an auspicious start by trouncing the Wildcats in the season opener last year.

LAST MEETING: The Tigers were supposed to be tame in their first game under a new coach in 1955, but the script that had them figured to finish 10th in the conference got temporarily mixed up as they lambasted Kentucky 19 to 7 at Baton Rouge in an upset classed as one of the two biggest shockers of the campaign. It was merely a case of Kentucky not being ready mentally and being knocked off balance by the initial shock when LSU took a 6-0 lead early in the first quarter and held on determinedly with flawless play. Turning point of the game proved to be a 96-yard kickoff return for touchdown by LSU's Joe May in the third quarter. The Wildcats, doggedly fighting back, had just narrowed a 13-0 Tiger lead by seven points on a toss from Bob Hardy to Howie Schnellenberger and began to take renewed hope. Then up popped May on the ensuing kickoff to break the visitor's back with the longest kick return ever made against a Kentucky eleven.

1956 OUTLOOK: Louisiana State, in its second year under Paul Dietzel, expects to field as good or better a team than the 1955 edition, which posted a 3-5-2 mark. Although the Tigers finished only ninth in the conference, they proved themselves an outfit to be reckoned with seriously and won plaudits as the hardest-hitting eleven in the nation. The experts (Birmingham News poll) are saying LSU will not finish higher than seventh in the league this season, but only four starters were lost and the returnees look capable of upsetting the dope bucket with a few breaks. The line, from tackle to tackle, is solid with returning lettermen and anchored by 265-pound, All-SEC tackle Earl Leggett. The starting ends are gone, but the number two men of last season appear capable. M. C. Reynolds, a starter at quarterback as a sophomore a year ago, is back as the pre-season pick for best passer in the SEC. Junior college transfers and some high class sophomore talent should blend together to give the Tigers a top-notch backfield. Dietzel will use a combination of "T" and Split T.

SERIES HISTORY: Georgia and Kentucky began their rivalry on the football field with a game at Louisville on Oct. 21, 1939. The two schools met almost annually from that time until the series was broken off after the 1949 game. Although the Wildcats can point to victories in the first and last games of the series, it is the Bulldogs of veteran Coach Wally Butts who have the edge in the rivalry, five games to three and one tie. Georgia, at the height of its power in the forties, took four straight meetings from the Kentuckians in these years before UK football came of age. The Bulldogs' last top-flight ball club was a 1948 aggregation that posted a 10-1 mark, won the SEC title and defeated Texas in the post-season Orange Bowl.

LAST MEETING: The Bulldogs were on the way down and Kentucky on the upgrade in the national football picture when the two last met at Lexington in 1949. Although the defending SEC champs were still regarded as formidable opposition at the time of the early October meeting and rated an overwhelming favorite, Kentucky upset the experts with a 25-0 triumph. Highlights of the game included a 91-yard kickoff return by Don (Dopey)

Phelps which stopped short of pay dirt and some yoeman work by Dominic Fucci, now a varsity assistant, who almost single handedly tamed the Bulldogs with his booming punts and pair of touchdowns. One of Fucci's touchdowns came via the airwaves with virtually unknown sophomore quarterback Vito (Babe) Parilli on the slinging end.

1956 OUTLOOK: Kentucky has never come out on the long end of the score in four visits to Athens, but the prospects seem pretty good that they will this year if the predictions of the pollsters hold up. The Wildcats are not figured to exactly set the world on fire, but are pegged to finish four spots above Georgia in the Southeastern standings (6th compared to 10th). A sobering note is evident, however, in the uncharacteristic report from veteran mentor Wally Butts that "in spite of the obvious inexperience on this squad, prospects are good for Georgia to field its best all-round offensive and defensive team since 1948." Graduation took 1955 regulars from five positions and 20 lettermen all told, but an equal number return to form a nucleus for improvement. The Bulldogs' ace passer of last season, Dick Young, will be missing and the SEC pass offense leaders are expected to put more stress on the running phase of their "T" and Split T machinery.

SERIES HISTORY: Maryland and Kentucky have squared off on the gridiron only twice previously and out of the two meetings have come a tie and a hard-earned Terrapin victory. The initial contest was played at College Park back in 1931 in the days before the Atlantic Coast stalwarts graduated to national football prominence such as they have enjoyed over the past few years. After much battling, the affray ended up in a 6-6 deadlock. Nearly a quarter-century later, Maryland repaid the Wildcat visit by coming to Lexington where they made Coach Blanton Collier's collegiate coaching debut an unsuccessful one.

LAST MEETING: Coach Jim Tatum rolled his Terrapins into town for the season opener in 1954 rated as defending national champions and the biggest name intersectional foe ever to play on Stoll Field. While Maryland managed to pick up a 20-0 victory, they failed to enhance their reputation at the expense of the unawed Wildcats. The Colliermen were within the Terps' 30-yard line six times, but failed to make the final yard to pay dirt. They also out-gained Maryland by 130 yards and picked up 17 first downs to their opponent's nine. Fumbles and interceptions at key points in the tilt were costly, however, and in the end the Wildcats could lay claim to winning every thing but the ball game itself.

1956 OUTLOOK: Following nine years of tremendous football success under the affable Jim Tatum, Maryland in '56 faces the beginning of a new era with 33-year-old Tommy Mont in the driver's seat. Although he chose to return to his Alma Mater, North Carolina, Tatum had prepared the groundwork for another fine team to succeed the Maryland outfit that was humbled only by national champion Oklahoma at the Orange Bowl in 11 outings last season. Although five starters and eight other lettermen were graduated, the Terps have 23 veterans back and they could be the finest nuclei of any returning eleven Maryland has had. From tackle to tackle, the Terps probably haven't been so strong since 1953 or before and in the backfield the talent looks to be potentially the greatest collection of backs in school history. Mont foresees another good team and says he expects to emphasize defense but at the same time try to put a bit more stress on offense, particularly the passing game. The Terps again will employ the Split T. Most notable among the absentees will be All-America center Bob Pellegrini. Leading the returnees are co-captains and All-America candidates tackle Mike Sandusky and guard Jack Davis.

SERIES HISTORY: Kentucky and the Vanderbilt Commodores first got together on the gridiron way back in 1896 at Nashville and the rivalry has been perpetuated intermittently ever since with the result that it is one of the oldest in the South from the standpoint of first meeting and number of games. Only the series with Tennessee exceeds it on the UK schedule. Surprisingly, in view of the fact that Vandy's football fortunes are thought of as being at a low ebb until last year (their highest finish since SEC organized was second place in '35), the history shows a record solidly in their favor—22 wins to Kentucky's five and two ties. An indication of the Commodores' greatness of yesteryear is reflected by 12 shutouts they registered in the first 26 years of the rivalry and the fact UK did not get into the win column until 1939. However, the post-war years saw the Wildcats blossom into national prominence and the record shows only two setbacks in the past decade.

LAST MEETING: The Wildcats will long remember the fateful November day in Nashville last season when they were humiliated, 34 to 0, by a combination of circumstances and an inspired Vanderbilt ball club.

Led by fleet-footed Charley Horton, Vandy lashed the injury-riddled 'Cats with their worst defeat in 10 years. Although the Kentuckians were mentally ready for an upset, having been "up" against six straight major opponents, in the end it was injuries that caused their downfall. They were forced to play most of the game without regular quarterback Bob Hardy, injured in the opening quarter, and fullback Bobby Walker received a serious knee injury early in the second frame. Several other key players were sidelined either for injuries in the Vandy tilt or earlier action.

1956 OUTLOOK: Capable Art Guepe's charges, who looked like the Commodores of old in blasting eight opponents while suffering only three close setbacks and hurtling well-regarded Auburn in the Gator Bowl, will be tough to handle this season if they keep their confidence. They are picked fifth in the pre-season poll on where the power lies in the SEC, but could give the "Big Four" a determined battle for third spot with a little luck. The major problem to continued dominance is the re-building task enforced by the loss of eight starters, but the 15 returning "V" winners include standouts Don Orr at quarterback, fullback-halfback Phil King and tackle Art Demmas. Vandy's youthful Split T crew may be a year away from resuming top form, but don't count on it.

SERIES HISTORY: An even dozen meetings make up the history of Kentucky and Xavier football rivalry. The initial contest took place in 1935 at Cincinnati and the last previous game, also played on Xavier's home field, came about in 1949. Ironically, Kentucky took the decision in both games by identical, 21-7 scores. The Muskies lone win was a 27-6 triumph at Cincinnati in 1938. Only two previous visits to Lexington have been made by Xavier, 1946 and '48. The '46 meeting provided one of the biggest point-production efforts ever seen on Stoll Field as the Wildcats set the Queen City crew down, 70-0.

LAST MEETING: The 1949 season marked the "coming of age" of the sleeping Kentucky football giant and the Xavier game proved a stepping stone to one of the most successful years in UK grid history. Xavier had won seven games in a row going into the contest at Cincinnati while the neighbors from south of the border had been tripped only by Southern Methodist in their first seven starts. Sparked by outstanding line play, which held the Muskies to a net of only nine yards rushing during the afternoon, Kentucky won the stiff battle, 21-7. This was the year the Wildcats went on to their first major post-season classic, the Orange Bowl at Miami.

1956 OUTLOOK: Xavier's Musketeers, in their second season under Mick Connolly, will be a youthful composition of 14 returning veterans and a promising crop of sophs that won three out of four games as yearlings. Six starters and 10 other letter winners will be missing from the 1955 outfit which won seven and lost only two, rolling to six straight victories to close out the campaign. However, Coach Connolly, All-Catholic All-America Coach of the Year, will have the services of eight seniors on his number one unit and might do all right again if he can find some size among the boys taking up the slack. He expects to employ the "T" and Split T and nominates Co-Captains Steve Junker and Bill McCloskey, end and right half respectively, as the probable top performers. Xavier replaces Memphis State on the Kentucky schedule.

SERIES HISTORY: Among the six oldest football rivalries in the South, the Kentucky-Tennessee series dates from a memorable encounter in Knoxville 63 years ago. In that meeting, Oct. 21, 1893, the Wildcats annexed a 60-0 victory to get the warfare off to an auspicious start in a fashion that hasn't been equalled in the many and colorful renewals of the traditional rivalry. Except for three war years (1917-18 and 1943), the two schools have met annually on the gridiron with the result that the Vols hold a distinct-but-fading edge of 29 wins to Kentucky's 14 and eight ties. Tennessee's sparkling advantage has become slightly tarnished in the past few seasons as Kentucky started reversing the victory trend with a upsetting tie in 1952 and ate into their polished record with successes in the last three meetings. The seniors on last season's UK squad became the first class in 43 years to graduate with the accomplishment of never playing in a game in which the Vols emerged victorious. Since 1925, the schools have stimulated their grid rivalry with a rotating trophy—a battered old beer barrel. Much shenanigans on the part of the rival student bodies have added to the color of the series. Following the 1953 UK win, disgruntled Tennessee students raided the Kentucky campus and “kegnapped” the barrel and held it in a secret hiding place in Knoxville until persuaded to return it by threats of reprisal against their coon dog mascot, Smoky. Last year, UK students visited the Tennessee campus hiding place of Smoky and “dog-napped” him. UT students promptly retaliated by painting up the Kentucky campus in a surprise raid and carting away “Colonel,” UK’s stuffed wildcat mascot. A trade was engineered as an added attraction at the game and harried university officials wondered, “What next?”

LAST MEETING: One of the sweetest victories in the historic series, which has seen both clubs cast in the role of spoilers, came on Stoll Field last season as the underdog Wildcats completely overpowered the bowl-hungry Vols, 23-0, and chalked up their most one-sided win since 1935. Kentucky scored in every quarter and kept Tennessee off balance all afternoon with alternating line-blasting cracks by bruising fullback Bob Dougherty, who had one of his greatest games, and passing artistry of Bob Hardy. The highly efficient offense was backed up by demoralizing line play such as the Wildcats hadn’t put out all season.

1956 OUTLOOK: In a few words, the outlook can be summed up by cautioning that Tennessee is going to be a tough customer to handle in ’56. The Single Wing followers of Bowden Wyatt may not be lucky enough to beat out Georgia Tech for the conference crown, but if they don’t it will be luck rather than lack of potential. Or perhaps it will be because the Vols are playing one of their toughest schedules ever—five bowl teams and five of the first six in the pre-season poll (Birmingham News) on the SEC finish. Wyatt will have his first two teams of ’55 back virtually intact (only one starter lost off the first eleven and two second stringers) plus some valuable sophomore help that got into the spirit of things as yearlings last season by trouncing Kentucky’s freshmen, 26-0, at Lexington. Heading the array of talent available is John (Drum) Majors, diminutive tailback selected by SEC coaches as the most valuable player in the league in ’55, and pre-season All-Conference flankman Buddy Cruze. Wyatt says his club is “a long way from being a championship team” and it’s hard to argue that until after the Nov. 10 meeting with Ga. Tech, but you can rest assured that the Vols will be a championship contender all the way.

HONORS COME LATELY

From its football beginnings in 1881 through 1942, Kentucky had only one player named to a recognized All-America team. In the short span of years since, no less than six have earned first team mention on the national honor rolls and three of the stars were repeaters. Fourteen Wildcats have received All-Conference recognition since the loop was organized in 1933.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL 'COMES OF AGE' IN 10 POST-WAR YEARS

By ED ASHFORD

Lexington (Ky.) Herald, January 20, 1956

The University of Kentucky has made its greatest advance in football in the 10 years following World War II. Before this period, UK was far from a football power, but the Wildcats' record over the past decade stacks up with the best.

Not only is Kentucky one of only three major schools in the nation whose grid teams have finished above the .500 mark in each of the 10 postwar seasons, but only four universities in the country have won more games than UK during this period.

Beginning with Paul Bryant's first season here in 1946, the Wildcats never have failed to win more games than they lost. The closest they came was in 1952 when they won five, lost four and tied two.

During this 10-year period UK gridders have won 70 games, lost 28 and tied 6.

The only other schools with 10 straight winning seasons are Oklahoma and Penn State. The Sooners have the best record—80 victories, 10 losses and 3 ties. Penn State has won 62, lost 25 and tied 3.

Roger B. Saylor, Penn State economist who dabbles in football research, is authority for the figures. Saylor has rated the nation's teams over the past decade by a system he evolved. His system places major stress on the strength of schedule and he endeavors to evaluate each victory in terms of the competition.

Saylor rates Notre Dame as the nation's tops for the 10-year period, with Oklahoma second and Georgia Tech third. Under his figures, Kentucky is rated 15th in the nation and fourth in the Southeastern Conference behind Tech, Mississippi and Tennessee. Nationally, Ole Miss ranks 10th and Tennessee 11th.

His figures reveal that UK is fifth in the nation in games won during the last decade. Oklahoma leads with 87 triumphs, Notre Dame and Georgia Tech are tied with 80, and Maryland has 73. The figures are for regular-season games only.

No longer can Kentucky be classed as strictly a basketball school. In basketball, however, you have to go all the way back to the 1926-27 season to find the Wildcats below the .500 mark.

PROFILE OF AN ALL-AMERICA CANDIDATE

LOU MICHAELS Junior — Tackle Swoyerville, Pennsylvania

When usually-placid professional scouts abandon their reserved composure to drool over an "interior" lineman—and a sophomore to boot—it's a pretty good tipoff that they have spotted a potentially great prospect.

Such is the case of Kentucky's great tackle Lou Michaels. With only one season of varsity play under his belt, he is already being tabbed by the experts as a potential All-American. You'd have a hard time getting any scout to speak out publicly in proof of their beliefs and it's highly unlikely that even neutral coaches would care to be quoted on the matter—all for very good and special reasons.

But, even in the absence of verbal proof, you can mark it down in your future book that this is a boy that bears watching in his second year of collegiate varsity competition.

Michaels looked exceptionally good as a Kentucky freshman two seasons back, living up to every inch of his terrific high school reputation, and showed great promise as a sophomore last year, improving with each game and gaining a spot at season's end on the All-Southeastern Conference Sophomore Team as well as honorable mention on many All-America selections. His work in the Wildcats' spring practice games this year gives Kentucky Coach Blanton Collier every reason to have faith in the probability that he will blossom into greatness before the 1956 season is very old.

The mature young giant from Swoyerville, Pa., came to the Bluegrass with a sensational high school reputation, boasting the unusual (if not unique) distinction of winning All-State honors in two different states—Pennsylvania and Virginia. The latter honor came as the result of his transfer to Staunton (Va.) Military Academy for his final schoolboy campaign. As a Kentucky freshman in 1954, Michaels (whose name is taken from the Polish Majka) captured wide attention as he turned in sparkling performances, both offensively and defensively, at left tackle and handled the point-after-touchdown kicking chores.

During 10 engagements as a sophomore last season, he served notice that he is a force to be reckoned with seriously. No statistics were kept on the number of tackles he made, but Kentucky coaches, as the result of grading game movies, gave him a mark of 3.5 on his offensive work at left tackle—the equivalent of carrying out his offensive assignment to perfection 70 per cent of the time by actual count. When you consider all the possibilities and conditions, his feat of getting his man an average of three and one-half times out of five in 384 minutes and 48 seconds of action is a pretty exceptional job for a sophomore.

Beats Vols Almost Single-handedly

Although he was outstanding in several games and received much recognition, his final game of last season against Kentucky's traditional rival, Tennessee, was perhaps the most singular achievement of his career and indicative of things to come. Lou was the fifth man in the Tennessee backfield much of the afternoon and his offensive play was nearly flawless as he threw several key blocks. In addition, his kicking was little short of sensational as he started Kentucky on the road to eventual victory with a first-quarter, 29-yard field goal; kept the Vols backed up in their own territory continually with booming punts; and kicked his own team out of the hole on numerous occasions.

This inspirational performance won Michaels widespread attention, especially by the pro scouts, and gained him runner-up honors in national balloting conducted by the Associated Press to select the "Line-man of the Week."

Lou's sparkling, 42.1 punting average for the season was second best in the Southeastern Conference, topped only by the national leader, Don Chandler of Florida, who has now graduated.

Coach Collier says of Michaels, who reminds many people of two-time All-America tackle Bob Gain: "Lou Michaels appears capable of greatness. He is one of the best I have seen in collegiate ranks in some time and should prove himself worthy of the highest praise by his play this season unless I misinterpret the indications he gave in late season last year and in our spring practice for '56."

At 6-2, 230, Michaels has the physical equipment to go along with great ability, demonstrated speed, strength, agility and a keen mind—the attributes that make up an All-America gridder.

PROFILE OF AN ALL-AMERICA CANDIDATE

DAVE KUHN (Co-Captain) Senior—Center, Louisville, Ky.

Nicknames attached to athletes can be amazingly characteristic of the individual or trumped-up misnomers that come closer to being deceptive than descriptive, such as the tag bestowed by teammates on ace Kentucky center Dave Kuhn.

The husky 1956 Co-Captain of the Wildcats is known as "Teddy-bear" to his fellow gridders. But aside from catching the fancy of sportswriters and the public, the sobriquet lends a mind picture of someone timid and retreating which is the farthest thing from correct in describing the rugged, bear-like Kuhn who already has been voted by Southeastern Conference coaches on the pre-season All-SEC team and named in advance as "best linebacker."

Opposing coaches and players can assure you from experience that Dave isn't afraid of anything in a football uniform and has the physique, intestinal fortitude and mental alertness to back up his play.

As an outstanding schoolboy performer at Louisville (Ky.) Male, Kuhn was regarded as the best defensive player in the state, twice was named on the All-State team and in his final year (1952) made the All-America honor eleven. Although he didn't get the nod for starting duty in his freshman campaign at U.K., he did show enough promise to pick up a varsity letter the first time out and looked good enough the following season as a regular to win a spot on the All-Conference Sophomore Team selected by SEC coaches. Coach Collier, in his first year at the Kentucky helm, demonstrated his faith in the youngster's ability by assigning him the duty of calling the defensive signals—a very responsible chore to give a sophomore.

Although Dave continued to give an outstanding account of himself both defensively and in offensive work last season as a junior, he missed the opportunity to take the next logical step up the football ladder to All-Conference recognition primarily because he was bothered with an injury to the breast bone that most certainly hampered his effectiveness in the latter stages of the season.

He's not the type, however, to "pet" himself. Dave saw 356 minutes and 40 seconds of action in the Wildcats' 10 games last year and played his heart out in the crucial, chips-down battle with traditional rival Tennessee in the closing game. Missing only seven minutes' action in the entire contest despite the soreness caused by his injury, he was outstanding on defense. Among other things he made a great save of a Tennessee pass into the end zone that represented the Vols' lone real scoring threat and made a key recovery of a fumble at another juncture of the game that stopped a Tennessee drive.

For the second straight year, Kuhn led the Wildcats in interception of passes that aided materially in the team's ranking as the sixth best pass defense outfit in the nation.

Coach Collier says of the 20-year-old linebacking ace, who is 6-2 and 216: "Kuhn has exceptional potential, especially as a defensive man, and certainly can be great if he sets his mind to it."

ORIGIN OF "WILDCATS" NICKNAME

Kentucky's athletic teams are known to sports fans as the Wildcats. This first and only nickname borne by University varsities had its origin in 1909 in a speech made by Commandant Carbusier, then head of the military department of old State College. Speaking to a chapel audience of students on the showing of the Kentucky football team in defeating Illinois six to two, the Commandant declared "they fought like Wildcats." The tag was popularized by word of mouth and by the press with the result that it has since become synonymous with all major Kentucky athletic teams.

While the name is old in origin, no claim is made regarding precedence over similar nicknames boasted by Northwestern, Villanova and about 10 other major athletic teams.

An alumnus in 1947 presented a live Kentucky Wildcat to SUKY, student pep organization. Named "The Colonel," the cat served as a live mascot for UK teams until its death early last year. As yet, no new wildcat has been obtained.

PROFILE OF AN ALL-AMERICA CANDIDATE

BOB DOUGHERTY

Senior — Fullback

Bellevue, Ky.

Before the 1955 season opened, Coach Blanton Collier had grave doubts about the soundness of his fullback situation and, more in particular, if big Bob Dougherty, after a three-year absence from collegiate competition, could get the job done.

True, the boy looked every inch the battering ram type of fullback that is a coach's dream, he boasted a fine high school reputation of making the All-State eleven three years running and posted a terrific mark at University of Cincinnati in 1951 by setting three school records as he plunged for 10 touchdowns. Furthermore, the one-time professional world champion Los Angeles Rams had already picked up draft rights to Dougherty's post-college services since his original class had graduated.

But what worried the Kentucky mentor was the effect of Bob's two-year hitch in the Marines, including 14 months in Korea, and the one season enforced layoff in '54 due to transfer rules.

Suffice to say that Collier worried needlessly for Dougherty came through with flying colors as one of the leading ground gainers of the Southeastern Conference with a creditable 4.3 average and stood out to opponents like a sore thumb by virtue of his outstanding defensive play.

The smiling Irishman, who is known to his teammates as "Humphrey", turned in one of the best accounts of himself in Kentucky's startling 21-14 upset of eventual SEC and Cotton Bowl champion Ole Miss in the second game of the season last year. Erasing all doubts as to his defensive prowess, he personally racked up eight unassisted tackles and shared in numerous others. And, lending an omen of things to come, he averaged four yards a try and caught one touchdown pass. Catching passes turned out to be a habit as he ended the campaign ranked right behind All-America flankman Howie Schnellenberger with nine catches for 87 important yards.

Kentuckians and opponents, alike, are expecting havoc-wrecking things (worthy of All-Conference mention) from the big fullback, who has trimmed himself down to 212 pounds distributed over a six-foot frame and has picked up speed to rank as one of the fastest men on the squad behind the speed demon halfbacks.

ALUMNUS COACH

Although Head Coach Blanton Collier did not receive his initial college degree from University of Kentucky, he nevertheless might rightfully be called the Wildcats' third alumnus coach. He was awarded a master's degree in educational administration by the University in 1942. Only other graduates of U.K. later to take up head football coaching duties at their alma mater were J. White Guyn (1906-08) and A. D. Kirwan (1938-44).

STOLL FIELD 'COW PASTURE' BIRTHPLACE OF DIXIE GRID SPORT

University of Kentucky's campus boasts the distinction of serving as the birth-place of Dixie football. Ironically, however, the forerunners of the present day Wildcats were not involved in the early grid contest.

The first inter-collegiate football game ever played in the South, and probably the first to take place west of the Alleghanies, came about April 9, 1880, on old Stoll Field. This gridiron, located adjacent to the present U.K. stadium and now used as a baseball field, was the site of the early tilt that saw Kentucky University (now known as Transylvania College) take the measure of Centre College, 13¾ to 0. The match, which was said to resemble a combination of soccer and rugby, followed by only six years the introduction of the game of football to the United States.

University of Kentucky (then called A & M College of Kentucky) did not play its first game until a year later on the same field, which once served as the private pasture for University President James Patterson's bovine herd.

BACKGROUND BRIEFS

(Thumbnail Sketches on the Wildcats—Arranged Alphabetically by Positions)

ENDS

RICHARD CHARLES—Sophomore—Murray, Ky.

One of several potentially promising prospects who were not certified as officially eligible as freshmen two years ago and red shirted last season to allow him an opportunity to pick up added grid savvy and size . . . Charles could get in some varsity action in '56 if a shoulder injury, suffered early in spring practice, does not hold him back . . . Dick has the determination to make good and has been switched from halfback to end . . . The 20-year-old Murray lad is six-foot and 191 . . . Studying Commerce.

JOHN CORNELIUS—Junior—Bethesda, Md.

Biggest wingman on the squad at 6-4, 206, Cornelius is sure to make his presence felt in the scrap with competitors and opponents, alike, this season . . . His first two years in a Wildcat uniform have stamped him as a fine prospect . . . Started at right end in late season play with the UK freshmen in 1954 and last year picked up a varsity letter in 52 minutes and three seconds of duty at the flank position . . . "Corney," as he's called by teammates, operated as the team's number one right end much of spring practice this year and only the return of veteran Al Zampino from service and some strong competition from rival Jim Urbaniak may keep him from starting honors . . . Plans are to utilize the big boy as a swing man to bolster both ends in a role that should make him extremely valuable . . . John was All-State in both football and basketball in his senior year at Chevy Chase High in Bethesda, Md. . . . Studying business administration and ranks as a fine student.

ROGER HARRINGTON—Senior—Louisville, Ky.

A hard-nosed ball player who will gladly mix it up with the best of them, regardless of size, and a man any coach would find a place for . . . If he can get to you, he'll hit you . . . Harrington has seen only limited action in three varsity seasons at Kentucky due to more talented men ahead of him . . . He was held out in '52 and was not active during the 1953 campaign because of a knee injury suffered in fall practice . . . Last season, Roger saw only a little over 10 minutes action as he was tried at fullback . . . Had been a halfback previously . . . Now has been shifted to end to bolster that shallow spot in the lineup and as an experiment to find a position where he can see extensive duty . . . Graduate of DuPont Manual High in Louisville, where he played halfback and fullback . . . He is 5-9, 163 and majoring in geology.

JACK MARTIN—Sophomore—Corbin, Ky.

Willing and promising rookie shifted to the flank position from guard spot in fall practice this season . . . Held out of competition last season as a sophomore to allow him to develop physically and experience-wise . . . Looked very good as a freshman guard with the Kittens in '54, starting on the left side . . . Tried last season and this spring on the other side of the line and also put at tackle in an experiment later abandoned . . . Transferred to end at the start of pre-season practice this year in a move designed to take advantage of his good speed and bolster a position weak in depth . . . Jack alternated as a tackle and fullback in one year of high school football at Corbin, making All-Conference . . . He is 5-11, 196.

ROGER PACK—Senior—Jenkins, Ky. (CO-CAPTAIN)

Co-Captain Pack looms as one of the key men in Kentucky's success plans for 1956 . . . Not only has he stepped into the big shoes of graduated All-America end Howie Schnellenberger, having moved over from the right to left side, but Roger also will likely be called upon to be the prime target of a revamped passing attack . . . May also have to alternate between scheduled starting duty at left end and relief work at his former left side location due to severe losses at the flank positions . . . Pack's selection as a co-captain of the '56 Wildcats climaxes a spectacular climb up the success ladder . . . Relegated to the third string at left end while picking up grid savvy as a soph in '54, he played only about 25 minutes all season but earned his first varsity letter . . . That year he caught only one pass for 15 yards, but was impressive enough in spring practice to move up to the number two right end spot for the '55 campaign . . . With two outstanding veterans (All-America Howie Schnellenberger at left and capable defenseman-kicker Bradley Mills at right), Roger appeared destined to be shunted into the background again . . . However, fate intervened at this point and he stepped into regular duty at two separate stages of the season when Mills was sidelined with injuries . . . All told, he started six games and came along so fast that he saw 325 minutes' service . . . Pack has good speed, is regarded as a good student (2.94 in Education) and should rank as one of the most valuable men on the 1956 squad . . . He's no slouch when it comes to size, either, standing 6-2 and weighing in at 202 . . . Honorable mention All-State at Jenkins High in 1952.

JAMES URBANIAK—Junior—Fairmont, W. Va.

Outstanding prospect . . . Urbaniak stood out as one of the best of the freshman flankmen during 1954 and last season showed great potential as he moved into the number two spot at right end after Roger Pack graduated to starting duty upon the injury of regular Bradley Mills . . . The return figured to set back his chances of seeing first string duty, but the added pressure of stiff competition only fired him up to greater heights and Jim seems sure to be in there regularly as a starter or key relief man . . . Considered the fastest end on the squad . . . One of the best students on the team, Jim made a 3.67 standing (equivalent of B plus grade) on 34 hours work in pre-med course as a soph last year . . . Tried at halfback in spring a year ago, but experiment did not work out . . . Played three seasons as an end and halfback at Fairmon Senior High, winning All-West Virginia second team mention in his senior year . . . He has good size at 6-0, 193.

DOUGLAS SHIVELY—Sophomore—Lexington, Ky.

Son of the Kentucky Athletic Director, but more renowned as one of the greatest all-around athletes in state schoolboy sports history. Doug was the first (and so far only) athlete in Lexington Lafayette High's 16-year history to win letters in four different sports . . . His achievements in football alone were exceptional—while winning four letters, he was honored as an All-State end twice, All-Southern two years, first team All-America on the Scholastic Magazine selections and second team by Wigwam Wiseman, and most valuable player of 1954 Recreation Bowl game . . . Shively also made first team All-State mention in basketball during the time his school was winning the state championship, picked up five letters as a top baseball prospect, and won the 440 state championship two straight times . . . He has the size at 6-2, 197 and speed-agility to develop into a fine flankman . . . Showed great promise as a UK yearling last season, catching six passes good for 58 yards and one TD in three freshman games and had a 32-yards-per-try punting average . . . Probably will start out as number two left end on the basis of spring work, but could be pushing someone for a starting job before the season is too old.

AL ZAMPINO—Senior—Philadelphia, Pa.

A three-letter veteran whose abrupt departure for service in the fall of '54 caused a disrupting and drastic revision in the defensive alignment of Coach Collier's first UK eleven . . . Zampino was one of the fastest improving men on the squad when he left and is being counted on heavily to plug a gap at right end (his former position) vacated by graduated Bradley Mills . . . Although he played service ball during Army duty in Korea, Al will be handicapped to some extent during the early going by a lack of familiarity with the system and plans since he did not return in time for spring practice . . . If he proves himself ready, he will take over at right end . . . But there's plenty of competition to beat out . . . Experience includes duty as defensive end regular as a freshman on the Cotton Bowl-bound team of 1951, service in '52 as defensive right half and part-time offensive flankman and regular two-way end in 1953 season when he ended up right behind All-America

Steve Meilinger in the pass catching statistics.

TACKLES

JAMES BOWIE—Sophomore—Detroit, Mich.

A sizeable (6-4 and 204) and very promising prospect who is sure to see a lot of game action this season behind Lou Michaels at left tackle . . . Jim was at Kentucky previously in 1953 as a freshman and left for service in August the following year before he could see varsity duty . . . Practiced with the Wildcats this spring while on furlough and was discharged just before the opening of pre-season drills . . . He's mature for a sophomore and looks every inch the "hard nose" type of footballer that he's reputed to be . . . The coaching staff is expecting and depending on Bowie to bulwark the left side of the line when the reserve platoon is in . . . Attended Millersburg (Ky.) Military Institute.

JACK BUTLER—Senior—Tompkinsville, Ky.

Backstopping strength is this lad's long suit . . . The road to regular duty has been a long one and Jack has more often been the "bridesmaid" than the "bride" as far as actual starting assignments go . . . But second string rating is no disgrace in these days of platoon substitution when the "backstoppers" play about as much as the starters . . . Butler is due to provide a very good account of himself this season after a fine spring practice exhibition . . . May beat out J. T. Frankenberger for the right tackle honors . . . Able to play either side, he alternated last year as number two man at left tackle and number three on the right side . . . Stiff competition doesn't discourage him . . . Did not play as a freshman in '52 and held out in 1953 to gain added experience and size . . . Got his chance during the '54 season when injuries sidelined tackle mainstays and started three games in late season . . . Last year, as a key reserve, Jack played 114 minutes to pick up his second letter . . . Hurt in the Vanderbilt game and lost for last two contests of season . . . He's 6-4, 220 and comes from a family of 10 in Tompkinsville.

JAMES CAMBRON—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

One of the most promising youngsters in the line picture this season . . . Sizeable at 6-2 and 224, has a good attitude and seems to profit by each new grid lesson taught him . . . Coach Collier says the boy has "wonderful possibilities" . . . Luke, as he's known to teammates, played tackle for four years under top schoolboy Coach Paulie Miller at Louisville Flaget and picked up honorable mention All-State honors in addition to All-City and All-County selections . . . Received school's extra curricular activities award as he also participated with outstanding success in basketball (2 letters), baseball (1 letter) and track (2 letters and high point man) . . . Won his numeral as an outstanding freshman at UK last season . . . Bothered in spring practice by a hand cut in off-season auto accident, but this is completely healed now and he should be able to give a good account of himself in '56.

JOHN ILARI—Junior—Louisville, Ky.

Transferred from guard to tackle early in pre-season practice this year, Ilari may see even more extensive duty than he did as a sophomore (236 minutes) . . . The boy lacks what might be considered (in comparison) good physical equipment for the tackle job but he's no slouch by any means at six-foot and 207 . . . And it's a position he is not entirely unfamiliar with since he was a tackle for Flaget High in Louisville from 1948 to '51 before spending three and one-half years in service that included duty in Korea . . . John is a willing learner and showed up so well in early season last year at guard that he started a couple of games . . . Studying to be a mechanical engineer.

and should see extensive and valuable service under the platoon substitution plan . . . The six-foot, 221-pound husky was held out of competition last season, after playing with the freshmen in 1954, to allow him the extra year that often spells the difference between a mediocre and good football player . . . He'll be given every opportunity to fit himself into the scheme of things this season . . . Bob is a cousin of Luke Lindon, who played his college football at UK from 1936 to '40 and later was with the pro Philadelphia Eagles and Detroit Lions . . . Studying to become a dentist after graduation.

J. T. FRANKENBERGER—Senior—Louisville, Ky.

A six-foot-four inch, 226 pound young giant who stacks up as the biggest man on the current Wildcat squad, Frankenberger has matured in more ways than size and stands ready to give a good account of himself this season . . . Probably will start on the right side and, with running mate Lou Michaels bolstering the other side of the line, could present one of most awesome tackle combinations in Dixie football . . . J. T. (standing for Jerome Thomas, but never used) started off the 1953 campaign (his first varsity season when freshmen were still eligible) as an end, the position he played at Louisville Flaget High for four years. Later, before the season reached the halfway point, he was shifted to tackle . . . In a reserve role the following two years ('54 and '55), J. T. contributed some top-notch football and saw considerable action . . . Played 210 minutes last season while spelling Michaels at right tackle . . . With Lou shifted to the left side, Frankenberger appeared set for a good year until the second day of 1956 spring practice when he developed a "trick" knee . . . An operation in late spring apparently has been successful and he should be set for full duty at a position that seriously lacks experienced depth . . . Enrolled in a pre-law course of study . . . In the off season, he tosses the shot better than 45 feet consistently for the track team.

LOU MICHAELS—Junior—Swoyerville, Pa.

See All-America candidate sketch, page 47.

DONALD MOORE—Sophomore—Owensboro, Ky.

A willing competitor who showed up well with the Kentucky freshman team two seasons ago and then was held out of action last year in a move designed to give him a chance for additional seasoning . . . He's not too high in the current tackle picture, but works hard to improve himself . . . Considered fast for his size (6-1, 198) . . . Saw duty as the regular right tackle in three tilts played by the freshmen in '54 . . . Don was honorable mention on the All-State team in his senior year at Owensboro High . . . Goes by the nickname "Bulldog" and studying Agriculture.

PAUL ROTH—Sophomore—Chicago, Ill.

The six-three, 215-pound ex-Windy City luminary has convinced the UK coaching staff in one season (as a freshman last year) that ability is there and that he could be all right by practicing aggressiveness . . . Showed great potential and moved up in the tackle ranks fast in pre-season practice . . . Has wonderful speed . . . One of team's fastest linemen . . . Fine student . . . Sports Editor of school paper at Lakeview High in Chicago where his honors for four years' play as a fullback-tackle under three separate coaches included All-City, All-County, All-Conference, honorable mention All-State, captain and Athlete of the Year . . . A rock 'n roll record enthusiast.

GUARDS

ROBERT BENNETT—Senior—Russell, Ky.

Never quite able to make the final jump to starting duty in three varsity campaigns to date, but his wealth of experience makes him a handy man to have around . . . He has picked up two letters as a reward for valuable relief work and was getting the hang of things pretty well by the end of last season when he had graduated up to second string duty . . . Saw 105 minutes' action as a left side reserve in '54 and 146:19 last year, mostly on the right side where he probably will play in 1956 . . . Showed improvement in spring and early season practice that may warrant him a call for starting duty if he can beat out chief competition of junior Archie Powers . . . Known familiarly to teammates as "Barney," the five-foot-eleven-inch, 208-pound veteran was an honorable mention All-State tackle at Russell High . . . Bob also has ability as a "slow ball" southpaw pitcher.

RONALD CAIN—Sophomore—Cumberland, Ky.

Most high school backfield luminaries good enough to garner the recognition accorded Ronnie (Raisin') Cain would consider it almost an insult to be switched to comparatively obscure line duty in college, but not Cain . . . Typical of his willing attitude was his answer on a freshman publicity information form to the question, "Position candidate for?" . . . He stated simply: "Anything" . . . Taking him at his word, the UK coaches put him at guard this spring to make most effective use of his natural ability at a weak position and Coach Collier reports he is "very pleased with Cain's progress and I feel certain he is going to be a good one" . . . The Wildcat chief explained that the switch meant no demotion for Cain who is considered a fine, aggressive linebacker . . . Ronnie twice was the top prep scorer in Kentucky while playing fullback for Cumberland High under Coach Roy King . . . Made 154 points in junior year and posted a 6.1 yards per try average in '54 while scoring 139 points . . . He was All-State and an honorable mention All-Southern and All-American selection . . . Earned his numeral with the Kentucky yearlings as a back last season and should rank high in the left guard picture this year.

ROBERT COLLIER—Junior—Jenkins, Ky.

A high school fullback and end at Jenkins High, tutored by former Kentucky tackle Jim MacKenzie, Collier is highly regarded by the coaching staff who are counting heavily on his experience and natural ability . . . Consistently a hard worker who can be depended on to put out his best every time he is in there, practice or game . . . Operated as the number two left guard most of last year after being moved from fullback . . . Played 184 minutes and 54 seconds during the '55 schedule . . . Bob might have stepped up to a starting assignment at left guard this season if it had not been for the return of veteran Duke Curnutte, who was ineligible last year . . . Still expected to play a lot of football and has the size (6-1, 209) to go along with the promise he showed late in '55 . . . Collier was an All-Conference player in both football and basketball while a schoolboy . . . His father is a miner and Bob is studying Engineering . . . The answer to the obvious question: No, he's no relation to his namesake, Coach Collier.

DELMAS CURNUTTE—Senior—Ashland, Ky.

One of the best line prospects in the South and a likely candidate for All-Southeastern honors if he shows up as well as expected this season . . .

The mature, 23-year-old veteran has a wealth of experience (starting duty at two positions and three letters to show for three years' action), and the physical makeup (six-foot and 209 pounds) and a determined attitude that indicates potential greatness in a grid performer . . . He's back after a year's enforced layoff due to scholastic troubles and has made fine progress towards licking an overweight problem as well . . . Duke, as he's known to everyone, earned his first "K" as a defensive guard in his freshman season (1952) and started out the '53 campaign as number two right guard . . . When a lineup shuffle was ordered to bring the Wildcats out of an early season slump, Curnutte was moved to left tackle and promoted to a starting assignment in a gamble that paid off as he sparked new life into the forward wall . . . Continued at tackle in 1954, but shifted back to his more natural guard position in spring of '55 before thrown for a loss by school work . . . Blocked out the professors last fall with a neat, 3.2 (B plus) standing that got him out of trouble . . . Had returned to school on own after dropped from scholarship . . . One of three fathers on the squad, he has a three-year-old son named Stephen Bryant after ex-UK All-American Steve Meilinger and former Coach Paul Bryant . . . Expected to hold down the starting spot at left guard if he successfully fights off stiff competition . . . Duke was an All-State selection in football and a wrestling standout at Ashland High.

JOHN GOBLE—Junior—Prestonsburg, Ky.

Sizeable, fast, willing and promising, but inexperienced to the extent that he has yet to see varsity action . . . Goble showed the best form of his career in spring practice this year and could make the grade to regular reserve service in '56, a development that would please the coaches who are hoping for the best . . . Academically a senior, but has two season of eligibility remaining . . . Fastest big man on the team, John can do the 100 in 10.9 out of uniform . . . He was All-Conference at Prestonsburg High.

DENNIS KUNKLE—Sophomore—Beaver, Pa.

One of the coming lights in the guard picture, Kunkle seems to have the necessary qualifications although not exceptionally big (5-11, 199) by the standards of teammates at the position . . . Earned his freshman numeral for play with the UK Kittens in '55 and showed promise in spring and pre-season practice this year . . . May elect to lay out the 1956 season in order to gain additional size and benefit from an extra year's preparation by the coaches . . . Captained his team at Bever Area High School and picked on the All-County team in the Beaver Valley hotbed of football talent . . . The family is Irish-German.

VINCENT LOCOCO—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

"Rough" summarizes the opinion of linemen on his own team and other outfits who play opposite the husky lad of Italian ancestry . . . He plays the game for keeps, whether it be on Saturday afternoon or in a weekday practice session . . . Vince is a good blocker, excellent tackler and quick for his size . . . Stacks up at 5-11, 213 . . . Earned his freshman numeral as a guard with the UK yearling squad last season . . . Displayed exceptional promise in spring and pre-season drills this year . . . Probably will see considerable action on both sides of the line . . . In high school at Louisville Flaget, he played guard, tackle and center . . . All-State, All-Southern and All-America in '54 . . . Also a great baseball prospect, Vince was first baseman and leading hitter (.450) on the Kentucky freshman baseball team.

JAMES MILLER—Sophomore—Madisonville, Ky.

A service returnee who will be handicapped by unfamiliarity with the system of play employed by Coach Collier and by the lack of spring practice work . . . Jim was considered an excellent prospect when he left for service after seeing limited duty at right guard in his freshman year (1953) . . . Reported back in time for fall practice but was discharged too late for the spring work sessions . . . May be a late comer at right guard . . . Has the physical equipment necessary to get the job done at 6-1, 190 . . . Just a question of whether he absence has helped or hindered.

CLARK RATCLIFFE—Junior—Pikeville, Ky.

If determined hard work and willingness to "pay the price" mean anything, Ratcliffe should round into form this season and make the grade he was aiming at when service duty interrupted his football career four years ago . . . It's going to be a hard way and represents a lot of learning to make the grade after four years away from the sport and no experience with two-way ball . . . Ratcliffe was a regular guard on the offensive platoon during his last season (1952) when the two-platoon mode of play was still in effect . . . He did not play football while in the service . . . Now, he must get muscles back in shape and learn defensive duty . . . Success in his efforts would be a great boon at the weak guard spot . . . Coach Collier is looking for fine play and a lot of help from Ratcliffe . . . All-Conference three years as a guard and linebacker at Pikeville High . . . He's 5-11, 204 and 24 years old now.

ARCHIE POWERS—Junior—Williamsburg, Ky.

Potentially a very outstanding performer . . . Powers made the All-Southeastern Conference Sophomore Team in 1955 (along with teammate Lou Michaels) almost without any previous publicity buildup that usually paves the rough road to such an honor . . . Showed flashes of brilliance as a freshman two years ago and blossomed into a fine collegiate gridder early last season . . . Earned the starting assignment at right guard around mid-season and kept a stronghold on it the rest of the year with continually improving play . . . His action time totalled 167:51 . . . Archie is not real fast, but makes up for lack of desirable speed with some tough defensive play . . . Stocky in build at 5-11, 207, he looks the part of a good college guard in physical appearance . . . Due to hold down the number one spot on the right side this year unless some radical realignment comes about . . . He had a good high school reputation while playing tackle at Williamsburg High, making the All-State team and being selected on the honorable mention list of the schoolboy All-America squad.

RICHARD BLOCKER—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

One of the top young line prospects on the Wildcat squad this season . . . Blocker is an excellent defense man who makes his presence felt in the enemy camp with antagonizing regularity . . . Judging from his freshman duty and spring and fall drills, he can be depended on to make an average of 10 key tackles a game . . . Coach Collier and aides are counting on the 6-2, 205-pound husky to backstop Dave Kuhn with dependable, outstanding play and to gain the experience needed as background for probable successor to Kuhn next season . . . Dick was an end for four years under the tutelage of ex-UK halfback Johnny Meihaus at Louisville St. Xavier High and was selected on the All-City and All-State second team.

DONALD BUCHANAN—Sophomore—Barbourville, Ky.

Excellent prospect who has gone through the full treatment of preparation for top-flight duty . . . Not certified as a freshman in 1954, red-shirted in '55 and tried at two other positions (tackle and guard) before moved to center . . . He will be certified this year and likely will make his presence felt whether he stays to bolster the weak-in-depth pivot position or goes back to guard where a good reserve is needed equally as much . . . Looked particularly good this spring while playing guard . . . Moved to center in an experiment after the first few days of fall practice . . . Don has fine desire . . . No speed demon, but tough defensively . . . He's 5-11, 206, youngest of family of eight . . . All-Conference and honorable mention All-State as guard-tackle at Barbourville High . . . Plans to enter the agricultural field after graduation.

LAWSON KING—Junior—Belfry, Ky.

An outstanding gridder who pleasantly surprised the coaching staff as a yearling and in the early days of last season . . . He was the leading center on the freshman squad at the end of the '54 campaign and got as high as second string during the first few games in 1955 . . . Slipped some in late season and played only about 55 minutes in all, but seems certain to make someone hustle to beat him out for extensive action in a reserve role during 1956 . . . Main drawback, aside from the lack of game experience, is his size—he's considered a little short at 5-11 of the desirable build for offensive center duty . . . Good blocker . . . All-Conference at Belfry High . . . Studying to be an engineer.

DAVID KUHN—Senior—Louisville, Ky. (CO-CAPTAIN)

See All-America candidate sketch on page 49.

WILLIAM LIVINGS—Sophomore—Montgomery, Ala.

Converted from fullback after his freshman season at Kentucky, Livings has had "a hard road to hoe" in his drive to become a good football player . . . Although he was not blessed with a great high school reputation (as far as honors go) while playing fullback at Sidney Lanier High in Montgomery, Ala., Bill came through with flying colors to pick up starting duty at fullback and serve as co-captain of the UK freshman team in 1954 . . . He was held out of action last year to allow for improvement and time to familiarize himself with center duties to which he was transferred . . . Expected to be in the thick of the fight for the chance to serve as Dave Kuhn's principal understudy this season . . . Coach Collier says Bill "has all the physical qualifications for a great football player." . . . He's 6-2, 202 . . . Also considered to have good speed . . . Served as vice president of Kitten Lodge, the freshman house.

RICHARD LOMBARD—Sophomore—Pittsburgh, Pa.

Came to Kentucky with a fine high school reputation, but still seeking the "spark" that will fire him up to the outstanding calibre of play expected of him . . . He was a center with the UK freshman unit last season, but did not see enough action to earn a numeral . . . Showed improvement in spring and fall workouts this season that may signal better days in prospect . . . The coaches are counting on Dick to come through to provide much needed reserve strength at the weak-in-depth center position and feel confident he can get the job done if he sets his mind to it . . . Now calls Hollywood, Fla., home, but played his schoolboy football at Westinghouse High in Pittsburgh, where he earned the honor of "Most Valuable Player In City" and the American Legion's "Unselfish Award" . . . He's 6-2, 202.

FRANK NAMATH—Sophomore—Beaver Falls, Pa.

Transferred from tackle, where he played as a Kentucky freshman, to center in a move designed to make effective use of his size and ability in bolstering a weakened position . . . It's likely Frank will see more duty at the new spot than he would have at tackle, where the competition is a little thicker . . . Considered a fine prospect, but he'll need much seasoning at the unfamiliar position . . . Played end and tackle at Beaver Falls High in Pennsylvania's hotbed of football talent . . . He's six feet, 203 and looked good as a catcher and leading home run hitter on the UK freshman baseball team last spring.

DALE WAITE—Junior—Ludlow, Ky.

A versatile and willing performer who was showing great promise as the number two center at the time he suffered a fractured small bone in his leg in the early days of fall practice this year . . . May be ready before mid-season, but the enforced layoff will seriously handicap his efforts to regain the stature he enjoyed earlier . . . Dale was considered one of the most improved men on the squad . . . Played only 20 minutes and 47 seconds last year and failed to letter . . . Shortly after enrolling at UK in 1953, he became a candidate for right end and then shifted to center the following season in which he was red-shirted . . . At Ludlow High, he made the All-Conference team at tackle . . . He's 6-1, 194.

QUARTERBACKS

WILLIAM FARLEY—Senior—Charleston, W. Va.

Ace passer and signal caller who returned this spring for a final season after being in the service for four years . . . During his previous tour at UK, Bill filled the important position of number one replacement for All-America Babe Parilli and doubled at times as an end . . . Started Kentucky's last post-season game, the 1952 Cotton Bowl, as an end . . . Never got much chance to live up to great schoolboy reputation while playing behind Parilli . . . He was an outstanding T-quarterback in his own right while at Stonewall Jackson High in Charleston and captained the southern squad in the high school North-South game of 1948 . . . Farley finds the going a little rough now, trying to pick up a new system after four years away from college ball . . . Saw some action while in the Air Force as the regular quarterback of London Area Rockets, All-Europe service champions . . . Came to UK a year after Parilli and looked good as a freshman . . . As a soph, he was the team's number two quarterback and completed 10 out of 23 tosses for 71 yards and four touchdowns . . . Shifted to end in 1951, Farley tried only one pass but caught four for 48 yards and one TD . . . He could provide a lot of answers to the question of depth in the quarterback slot if he comes through this year . . . Has great poise, fine leadership qualities and adequate mechanically . . . Problem is background knowledge of UK system and opponent weaknesses . . . Good student . . . LATE INFO: Suffered a broken bone in hand about a week before the opening game and will be lost for a few vital weeks.

JACK FREEMAN—Senior—Danville, Ky.

Changed his signals on plans to forego his remaining year of eligibility and enter Medical School after being accepted . . . Will play out the final season, providing dependable help at the thin quarterback spot . . . Freeman has yet to see varsity action, due to more talented men ahead of him . . . Did not get to play as a Kentucky yearling in '53 and held out in '54 while experiments were conducted to find the best spot for him . . . Started out as a right halfback, then shifted to signal calling duties . . . Ranked fourth in the quarterback picture last season and the situation never presented itself that called for his talents . . . At Danville High, he won mention on the third team All-State squad as a back . . . He's 5-10, 160.

DELMAR HUGHES—Senior—Prestonsburg, Ky.

Heir apparent to the quarterback duties vacated by All-Conference Bob Hardy and perhaps the key man in the Wildcats' success plans for '56 . . .

Hughes steps into mighty big shoes and has to come through in handsome fashion if UK is to wage a good fight against the power-packed schedule . . . With three years of understudy experience behind him and a capable passer-field general in his own right, Delmar has given Coach Collier and aides every reason to believe he will hold up his end of the bargain . . . Almost got the nod for starting duty over Hardy while still a raw freshman when he showed up extremely well in the early going despite a team slump . . . Although the odds of fate smiled the other way and he was forced to operate in Hardy's shadow, the Prestonsburg ace has managed to post a terrific career passing accuracy mark of 50 percent and last season tied the all-time Kentucky record for consecutive points after touchdowns (17 over two seasons)—a mark he should break with his first conversion this season . . . Delmar's educated toe not only operates after touchdowns, but provides a valuable crutch at other times . . . Fans will not soon forget his heroic act in the Florida game last year when he came off the bench, still groggy from a broken nose suffered in earlier action, to kick a game-winning field goal as time was running out . . . Came to the Wildcats in 1953 with a great high school reputation as one of the best passers in the state . . . Completed 271 aeriels in 397 attempts over a three-year span for 3,401 yards . . . Passed for 51 TD's, scored 25 himself and added 67 extra points . . . He has demonstrated much improvement this spring and in pre-season practice with the psychological benefit of regular duty on his shoulders . . . Can pass with the best and runs the Split T option with expert effectiveness . . . A younger brother, schoolboy All-America Lowell Hughes, is a quarterback on the UK freshman eleven this year and still another (Paul Phillip) is carrying on the family tradition as a quarterback at Prestonsburg High where all three learned their football . . . Delmar is one of three fathers on the team, having been presented with a son last April.

Hughes' record as a Wildcat:

	Att.	Comp.	Pct.	Had Int.	Yds. Gain	TD Passes	Times Carried	Yds. Gain	TD's	PAT Att.	PAT Made
1953	11	5	45.4	2	38	0	5	—37	0	8	4
1954	59	26	52.0	6	281	1	35	49	1	12	11*
1955	13	6	46.2	1	92	0	11	23	0	13	13*
	74	37	50.0	9	391	1	51	35	1	33	28

* Does not include one field goal made in one attempt.

RICHARD MABRY—Sophomore—Lexington, Ky.

Calls Lexington home now, but born in Alexandria, Va., and educated at Washington and Lee High in Arlington, Va., and Bullis Prep School in Silver Spring, Md. . . . Outstanding in high school, Dick won All-State honorable mention, All-Conference honor and was "Most Valuable Player" of the 1953 Silver Bowl game as a quarterback . . . Also president of sophomore class and president of student council as a schoolboy . . . A brother will captain the Naval Academy's 150-pound team this year . . . Dick is considered a fine defensive football player and probably would be playing first string on defense if two-platoon football were the current vogue . . . Thus it's likely he'll see some special spot duty as a defensive halfback . . . He's 5-10, 179 and studying electrical engineering . . . LATE INFO: Moved back to quarterback a week before opening game after Farley broke hand.

KENNETH ROBERTSON—Junior—West Palm Beach, Fla.

Typical of the potential of this boy is Coach Collier's summation: "I'm inclined to trust him . . . He provides good leadership, moves the team well when he is in there and has proved he can operate under pressure without going to pieces." . . . Kenny showed up very well as a sophomore last season in brief appearances, totalling 62 minutes and four seconds of action . . . Included was a supreme test of 34½ minutes against fired up Vanderbilt late in the season as a substitute for injured Bob Hardy . . . Stepped in and held the team together despite the morale-shattering licking being administered by the Commodores . . . His season passing record showed five completions in 10 attempts for 59 yards and one TD . . . Considered an outstanding prospect and should see a lot more action this year in backstopping Hughes . . . Started every game and served as co-captain of the Kentucky freshmen in '54 . . . Also elected president of Kitten Lodge, freshman football house, and selected by teammates again this year to be president of the varsity house, Wildcat Manor . . . Possesses a keen mind as evidenced by his 2.92 standing (approximately B grade) in engineering studies as a freshman . . . How far he goes in football is limited only by his desire . . . Won numerous honors while at Palm Beach High, including All-State and the Civitan's Award as the "Most Outstanding Football Player." . . . He is 5-11, 189.

HALFBACKS

DAVID ALLEN—Sophomore—Hamilton, Ohio

Won his numeral for work with the Kentucky freshmen last season and will have to be taken into account when situations calling for a halfback reserve arise this season . . . He's comparatively small (second smallest halfback at 5-11, 179), but a blonde streak when he gets going with the ball . . . Also considered a fine defensive man and seems to love the contact of a hard tackle . . . At Hamilton Public High, Dave captained his team the final year and ended up as its leading scorer and an All-City choice . . . Probably will play on the left side.

DONALD CLERE—Sophomore—Ashland, Ky.

Not the biggest of the halfbacks or fast enough to be classed in the scatback category, but Clere clears the way one way or another when he gets into the secondary with the pigskin tucked away . . . He's been groomed with the idea of providing much-needed reserve strength in the halfback ranks this season . . . Don played as a freshman at UK in 1954, then was held out last season to give him the opportunity to develop the Engineering.

potential he obviously possesses . . . Missed some of the benefit of spring work this season when bothered by a sprained ankle . . . Likely to operate in a high reserve capacity at left half . . . He's 5-11, 187 and studying

ROBERT CRAVENS—Sophomore—Owensboro, Ky.

Best described as big, fast, with a bewildering change of pace, Cravens won top All-America schoolboy honors following a brilliant career at Owensboro High and stardom in the post-season All-America high school football game at Memphis in 1955 . . . He was voted unanimously as "outstanding player" of the all-star tilt in which he caught a scoring pass and broke away for long gains consistently during a tremendous performance that aided the East's 20-14 victory . . . Cravens gained almost 1,400 yards in his final high school season while racking up 90 points and winning All-State and All-Southern selection . . . He also lettered in basketball, baseball and track. Able to run the 100 in close to :10.4 in football gear, he is one of the fastest backs on the squad . . . Lived up to every inch of his glowing reputation in two appearances with the Kentucky freshmen last season . . . He scored one touchdown personally and contributed numerous runs from scrimmage as well as punt-kickoff returns that aided the Kittens' win over the Morehead State College varsity and showed enough under wraps to be impressive in the UK freshman test against Tennessee's Baby Vols . . . Cravens' spring practice stints this season caused him to be rated high in right half picture and it appears a foregone conclusion that we will see extensive service as a soph . . . Size is 5-10, 195.

IVAN CURNUTTE—Junior—Ashland, Ky.

Known usually as the "little brother" of Duke Curnutte, the Wildcats' outstanding guard, he makes up for what he lacks in size with hustle, heart, determination and fearlessness . . . Despite the fact that he is probably one of the nation's smallest collegiate gridders, "Ivan The Terrible" is considered a more than adequate football player and doesn't hesitate to mix it up with the biggest opponent . . . Observers often reflect on what a great player he would be with a few more inches and pounds to go with his spirit . . . His "never say die" attitude rubs off on teammates to the extent that he is a good leader . . . He's a spot player as evidenced by the fact that in his initial brief appearance as a Wildcat (Villanova game, 1953) he scored the first time he got his hands on the ball . . . Able to break away for the long one anytime and could pop up anywhere in the backfield—he's even been used at fullback . . . Runs the 100 in 10.4 . . . Good student who made a B average in Education last year . . . Curnutte played three seasons at halfback with Ashland High and earned honorable mention All-America honor.

JACK GALLAGHER—Sophomore—Cumberland, Ky.

Freshman numeral winner who had a fine high school reputation based on six years' play at Cumberland High . . . Coaches feel it is hard to tell his true potential despite this background and probably will take a little longer look at him this fall before deciding just when and where he will play . . . He has pretty good speed adequate size but was hurt some last year and again this spring was bothered with a badly sprained ankle . . . The boy has possibilities, according to Coach Collier, and may play to some extent on the right side.

CARL GOINS—Sophomore—Madisonville, Ky.

One of the top speedsters on the squad, Buddy ranked as the second fastest dashman among freshmen in the Southeastern Conference last spring before an unusual accident sidelined him temporarily . . . The stocky (6-0, 193) and swift young halfback suffered a deeply gouged thigh when he accidentally jumped out of the upper bunk of a double decker bed onto a metal tube of a chair . . . The wound in the back of his thigh was deep and he bled badly before he had presence of mind to fashion a tourniquet for himself with help from frightened teammates . . . But, fortunately, the chair post missed the major muscles and the leg has healed up nicely with no affect on Goins' speed . . . He seems certain to see a lot of football action this season . . . The coaches are counting on his breakaway speed and obvious talent . . . Buddy was a fullback and quarterback in four years of high school football at Madisonville.

WILLIAM MITCHELL—Senior—Georgetown, Ky.

A lanky speed merchant whose greatest weapon is a deceptive stride and change of pace . . . Billy, who is a sprint and high jump star with the track team in the off season, really picks them up and lays them down—literally speaking . . . Runs with a galloping stride, knees high, that makes him hard to bring down once in the secondary . . . Operated mostly at left half in career to date, but saw some reserve duty too at the right side in 1955 . . . Probably will start on the right backfield flank this season as the coaches take advantage of his experience and speed . . . Played 141:29 last year and was third on the team in pass receiving and punt returns . . . In his sophomore year, he looked even better as he posted a very creditable 5:3 average on 25 trips with the ball and was fifth in ground gaining . . . Everyone is predicting a good year for the likeable lad from Georgetown this season as he improves with the responsibility of regular duty . . . A fine student, he made a 2.94 standing on 31 hours in the Education College last year . . . Serves as vice president of the varsity football house, Wildcat Manor . . . Mitchell is 6-2, 189 . . . Played quarterback at Georgetown Garth High, winning third team All-State and honorable mention All-America honors his final year . . . Also accorded first team All-State mention in basketball twice.

HENRY (WOODY) HERZOG—Junior—Hamilton, Ohio

One of the Wildcats' most promising backs who sow a lot of action as a sophomore standotu last season . . . Woody could be the dangerous, breakaway runner that Coach Collier has been looking for, needing and missing . . . He was number two at right half most of the 1955 campaign, playing a total of 169:47—second highest of any soph on the team . . . Fourth in UK ground gaining statistics with a very creditable 5.4 average on 41 trips that netted 222 yards . . . Second best Kentucky kickoff return man and 14th in the conference, returning six for 110 yards . . . Coach Collier says "Herzog is one of the best runners on our team and the competition in front of and behind him should make him an improved man this season." . . . Starred in the Ole Miss game, measuring 56 vital yards on seven carries . . . One 39-yard sprint set up UK's second touchdown in a 21-14 outcome that represented the only setback for the eventual SEC and Sugar Bowl champs . . . Probably will see even more duty this year, but will have a tough time to break into the starting lineup ahead of Billy Mitchell . . . Woody was Hamilton High's "Best Back" and "Most Valuable Player" as well as a member of the school's state champion net squad . . . He's 5-11, 192 and majoring in history.

DONALD NETOSKIE—Senior—Martinsburg, W. Va.

An "all the way" threat who proved his worth last season in 355:50 action as the team's regular left half . . . Expected to hold down the same job this year and should benefit from the experience of full-time duty a year ago . . . He was the second best ball carrier on the Kentucky varsity last year with a good, 5.1 average for 54 trips that gained a net of 276 yards . . . Don also led the team in punt returns (10-119) and kickoff returns (9-175), was fourth in pass receiving (6-112-1 TD) . . . Ranked fourth in the Southeastern Conference on punt and kickoff returns . . . His 39-yard return of an Ole Miss fourth-quarter punt last season proved to be the turning point that carried the Wildcats to a 21-14 upset and handed the eventual SEC and Sugar Bowl champs their only loss in 1955. Netoskie picked up 69 yards in the spring Blue-White intra-squad game this year to pace the veterans and lend the impression that he will be a tough hombre to deal with in

'56 . . . He has provided welcome depth and made a creditable showing in his freshman and sophomore campaigns as well . . . Although not particularly sizeable at 5-11, 187, Netoskie uses every inch and pound to good advantage and doesn't shy from contact . . . Came to Kentucky with a great high school reputation as an All-State standout sought by many schools . . . Played halfback at Martinsburg High in West Virginia and is a brother of ex-UK end John Netoskie (1948-51) . . . One of the track team's best middle-distance runners in the off season.

EDD SELVY—Sophomore—Corbin, Ky.

Comes from a fine athletic family that includes six brothers, one of whom is Frank Selvy of basketball All-America fame . . . Started his athletic career at Kentucky last fall after transferring from Furman, the school where brother Frank got his fame . . . Edd is considered a "potentially fine football player" by Coach Collier and probably will see a lot of action as the number two man at left half this season . . . He is good defensively and a fine runner . . . The coaches are counting on him to push Netoskie to a top-flight performance while serving as understudy in '56 and to see some equally top-drawer calibre of action in his own right . . . Could be one of the top sophs on the team if he comes through as expected and would be the logical choice to take over next season . . . Played only one year of football at Corbin and four seasons of basketball, in which he made All-State and All-America mention . . . Father of a daughter born a few days before fall practice opened.

ROBERT BONICH—Sophomore—Lynch, Ky.

Shifted often between fullback and halfback in an attempt to give him the experience that will settle him into a sound football player, but has yet to see game duty as a collegian . . . Failed to get into action with the UK freshman unit in '54 as he was recovering from a broken collar bone suffered in a schoolboy All-Star game . . . Last season, hard luck continued to dog his trail as he underwent a different operation in the spring and then sprained his ankle early in fall practice sessions . . . Rather than lose a season's eligibility, he laid out of action the entire season . . . Probably will finally get to play this year and should help out materially at fullback . . . Bob hasn't got any blazing speed, but he has shown in practice that he may be as good a runner as there is on the squad . . . Ability must be harnessed and injuries avoided for him to have a good year . . . One of Kentucky's prize schoolboy catches in 1953, he was an All-State selection and honorable mention on the All-South list . . . Checks in at 6-0, 191 and studying engineering.

ROBERT DOUGHERTY—Senior—Bellevue, Ky.

See sketch on page 51.

GARLAND MILLER—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

Although he was not certified as officially eligible for freshman duty two years ago and missed game action again last season, Miller has shown some signs of developing into a better than average back . . . But he faces a tough road to high reserve duty again in 1956 with several more talented men ahead of him . . . If he comes out in good shape, Corky should provide considerable help . . . Potentially a strong runner and above average defensive man . . . Played four years as halfback-fullback at Louisville Southern High . . . He's 5-10, 209 and enrolled in the Commerce College.

WAYMOND MORRIS—Sophomore—Owensboro, Ky.

Leading ground gainer on last season's Kentucky freshman eleven, Morris rates high in the reserve picture behind big Bob Dougherty this year and could provide highly desirable backstopping strength that Coach Collier is seeking . . . Tough competition from teammates at the fullback slot should not discourage him and the coaches are hoping it will make a better man of him . . . Can really ramble once in the open . . . Ticked off a 44-yard gallop against the Tennessee freshmen last year that ranked as the longest run by any Kitten back . . . Defense is the key to where he will rank among the fullbacks . . . All-State and honorable mention All-America following his senior year at Owensboro High . . . He is 5-10, 191 . . . Studying history as a major subject and plans now to be a teacher after graduation.

PAUL SLOAN—Sophomore—Catlettsburg, Ky.

Although he failed to pick up his numeral for freshman duty, Sloan has been coming fast ever since and now rates about two or three in the fullback picture for the coming season . . . The 5-11, 190-pound Kentuckian made a few people sit up and take notice as he emerged from last spring's Blue-White intra-squad game as the leading ground gainer with 86 yards on four carries—one of them a 79 yard gallop for a touchdown . . . He will not be easy to keep on the bench and should see a lot of football duty this year . . . Abner, as he's known to teammates, has speed and it's only a matter of how good he turns out to be defensively that will measure the amount of service he sees . . . Sloan was co-captain of his grid team at Thomas Brown High in Catlettsburg, a forward in basketball and dash man in track.

CLIFTON TRIBBLE—Sophomore—Lebanon, Tenn.

A powerful and shifty operator whose long-time nickname, "Twinkle-toes," is no misnomer . . . He hits the line with all the power of a two-ton Mack truck despite the lack of size generally considered desirable in a fullback, picks his holes with terrific agility and blasts through the slightest opening with blazing speed . . . Cliff was an All-Tennessee choice at Lebanon High, playing his schoolboy football under former Kentucky gridder Jim Babb, and enrolled at Middle Tennessee State College in 1954 . . . Transferring to Kentucky in '55, he missed all last season due to the transfer rule but his practice activity was outstanding and his play in spring scrimmage this year has stamped him as one of the team's most promising sophomores . . . It appears highly unlikely that he will beat out regular Bob Dougherty for starting duty at fullback, but Tribble is going to be making anyone ahead of him hustle and seems sure to lend a valuable hand with his "get up and go" power . . . He's 5-10, 184.

THE UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

Located in Lexington, a community of over 100,000 population, UK is a state-supported institution which operates under the direction of a Board of Trustees. Membership of this Board includes the Governor, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the Commissioner of Agriculture, ex officio, and twelve members appointed by the Governor, three of whom are alumni of the University and three members of the State Board of Agriculture. It is one of a number of institutions known as land-grant colleges, which were established by the Morrill Act of 1862.

The major function of the University is that of instruction, although great benefits to the citizens of the state are derived from research and special services. For instructional purposes, the University is organized into eight colleges, a Graduate School, and a Northern Extension Center at Covington. The colleges are Arts and Sciences, Agriculture and Home Economics, Engineering, Commerce, Education, Law, Pharmacy and Adult and Extension Education. The 1956 session of the state Legislature also authorized, at the request of Governor A. B. Chandler, the beginning of a Medical School and plans call for a first class to be accepted in 1959.

Dr. Frank G. Dickey, President

By the time the University's footballers settle down to their 66th season of grid activity, UK will be under the direction of its fifth president—Dr. Frank Graves Dickey. The former dean of UK's College of Education succeeds Dr. Herman L. Donovan, who is retiring after 15 years in the post.

The University is on the approved list of the Association of American Universities and is a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. It is fully accredited in its respective colleges and departments by all of the major professional societies and educational associations.

The University began as a part of Kentucky University under a co-operative plan authorized by the Legislature in 1865. The purpose of this plan was to unite sectarian and public education under one organization. This experiment was tried for a number of years. In the meantime, the federal funds authorized under the Morrill Act were used to develop agriculture and mechanical arts in Kentucky University. In 1878, when the people of Kentucky decided to establish a state institution of higher learning, the College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts was separated from Kentucky University and reestablished on land given by the City of Lexington and the County of Fayette. Thirty years later the Legislature changed the name of the institution to the State University of Kentucky, and gave it additional financial support. In 1916 the name was again changed, this time to the present title.

KENTUCKY'S COLORS

The blue and white of the University of Kentucky are known to sports fans everywhere. Officially the colors are Yale blue and white, but in the beginning, when the Lexington institution was still known as the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky, the colors were "Stoll blue" and white. One day back in the 1890's a group of Kentucky football stalwarts met to choose their school colors. Someone suggested blue and white—"blue like Dick Stoll's necktie"—and those colors were immediately adopted. "Dick" Stoll was to become Judge Richard C. Stoll, distinguished public servant and, for more than fifty years before his death, a member of the U.K. board of trustees.

Footnote A — Although numerical scoring had not yet been introduced in Rugby football, either here or in Great Britain, when Kentucky and Transylvania (then known as Kentucky University) played their series in 1881, persons in charge of the games obviously had arrived at some sort of agreement assigning numerical values to the various scoring plays. Records never existed and men who played in the games are scattered or dead. All we can do is accept the scores printed in the newspapers — and surmise that a touchdown perhaps counted $\frac{1}{4}$ point and that a goal or an end-kick (a punt into the modern end zone) counted 1. That seems logical, since in the ratio scoring of that day, a touchdown was worth one-quarter of a goal. The end-kick, a British heritage, undoubtedly was introduced because all realized that green players would score few goals, if any.

Footnote B — The football rules took no official position on the score of a forfeited game until 1908 when it was pegged at 1-0 to make it different from any other score possible in the game. By common consent, forfeited games prior to that were entered into the records as victories by 6-0 for the offended team — everywhere, that is, except in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, predecessor of the Southern Conference and the Southeastern Conference. In the S. I. A. A. the 6-0 practice was followed unless the offended team had a greater number of points. In that case, the offended team won by the greater score to nothing. Thus, Kentucky's forfeiture to Central University in 1900 is 6-0, since Kentucky led by 11-0 at the time. Kentucky led Cumberland by 12-11 in 1905 when the Tennesseans forfeited. The Blue and White, under S. I. A. A. rules, gets credit for a 12-0 victory.
